The 1965 Viking

by . . . Yearbook Staff

Publishers . . . Hoover High School North Canton, Ohio

his edition of the Viking is presented to you as a novel, The Story of 1965. It is appropriate that the story of the many people at Hoover High School through their work, play, competition, and enjoyment be related as a novel. The authors desire that your reading be both pleasurable and informative — through the introduction of the characters, the unfolding of the plot and the excitement of the conflict.

The presentation in this novel has been designed to emphasize all the integral parts of high school life. We have attempted to record as many incidents as possible in the 1965 edition. Yet we realize we can capture only a few glimpses of your vast store of memories. There will be a sequel to this novel, but the story that has been told here will never be duplicated. From year to year setting, plot, conflict and climax will remain nearly the same, but the characters will be continually changing.

To you, the reader, we offer this "best seller" and hope that it truly captures The Story of 1965 for now and for memories in years to come.

SETTING includes 41,790 square feet of building, which creates an environment for the action of the current narrative. The structural development of the school is relative to the growth of the community. The fleeting seconds are filled with joy and tears, work and play, songs and sighs. Time is the essence of memory; its value is infinite.

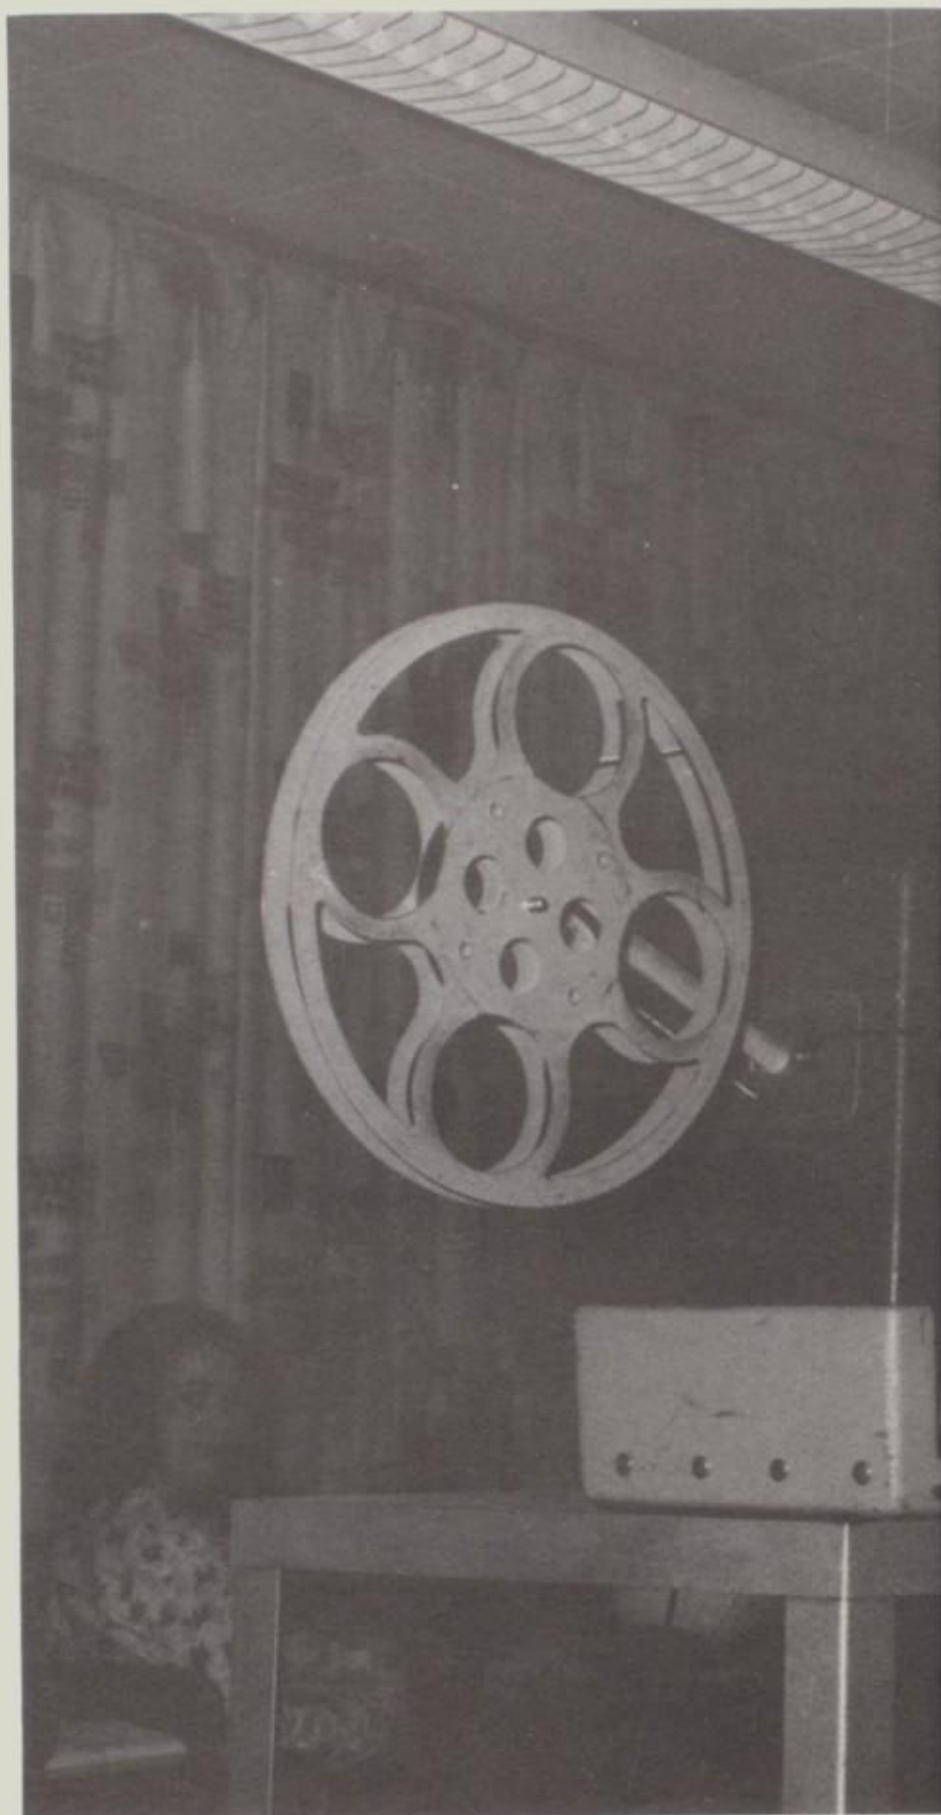

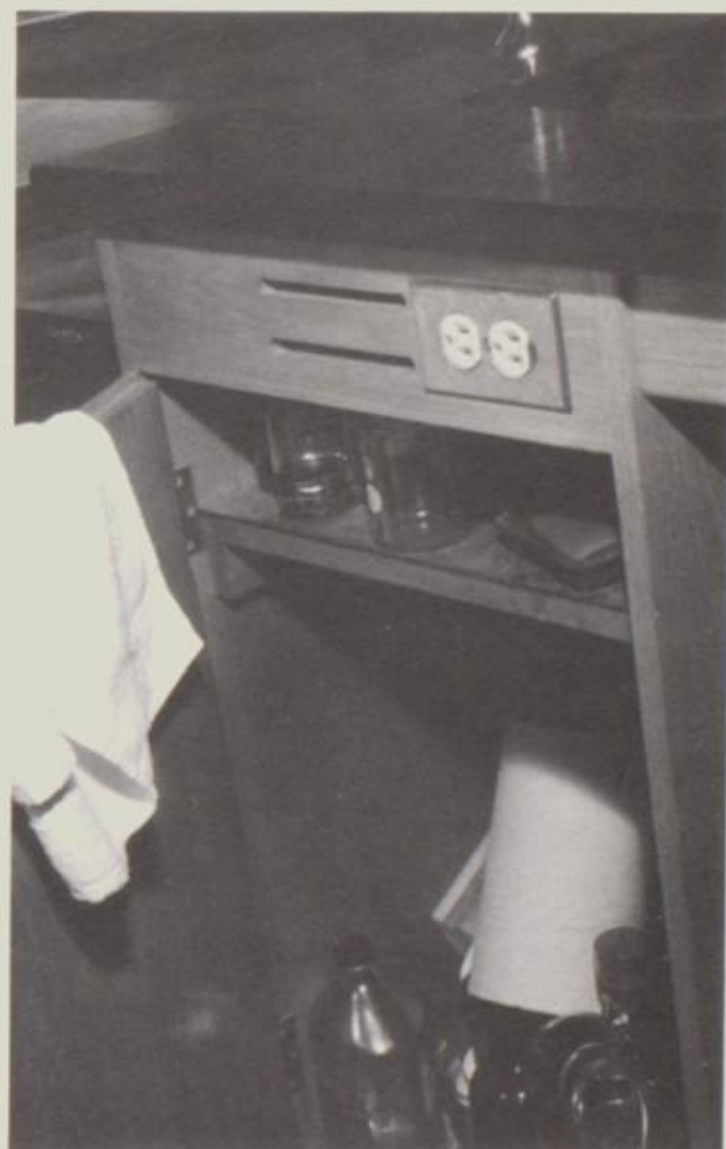

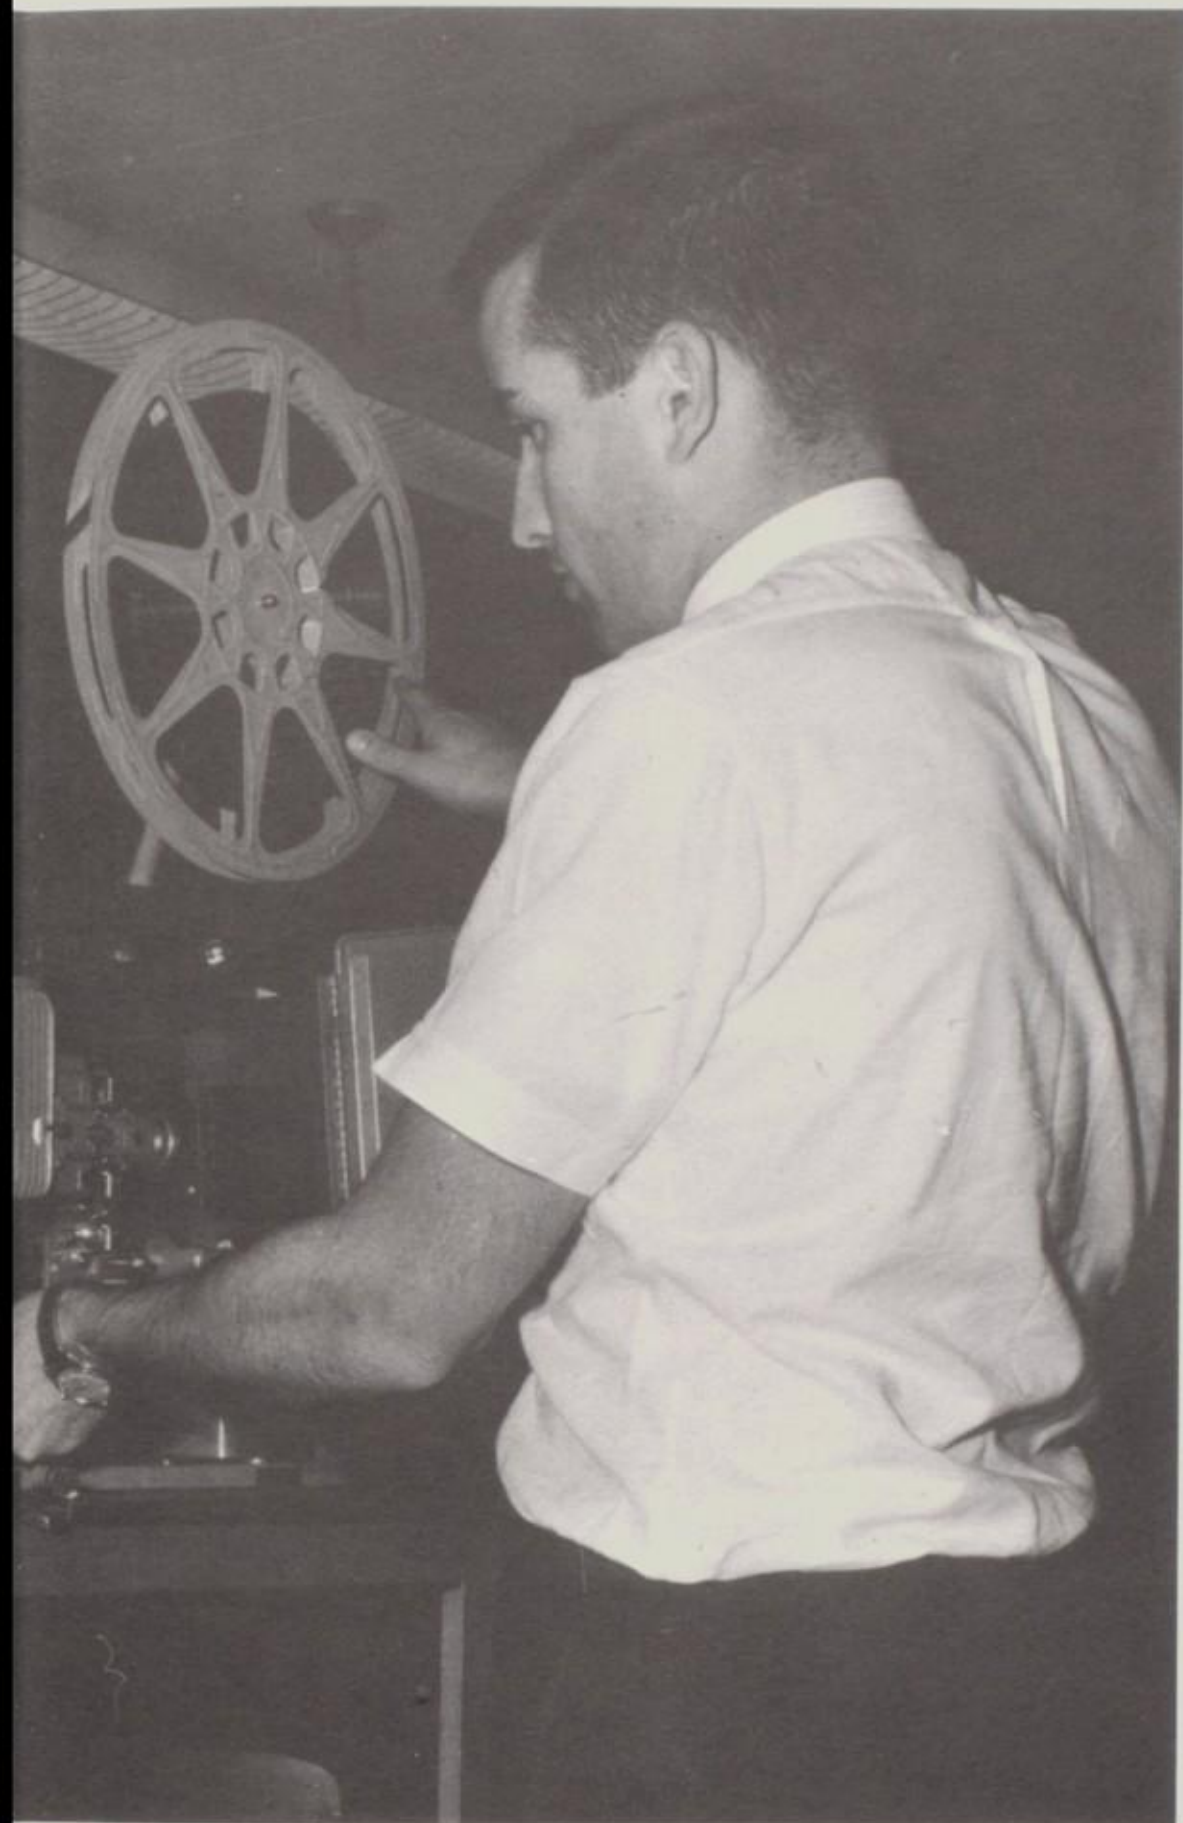

CHARACTERS are woven into the threads of the plot. Each character moves in a particular path to collide with, to fuse with and separate from the others. The 1,250 characters, major and minor, act as teams and as individuals to bring the story to a climax. Each is cast in a singular mold, so that he is sharply drawn and distinct from all others.

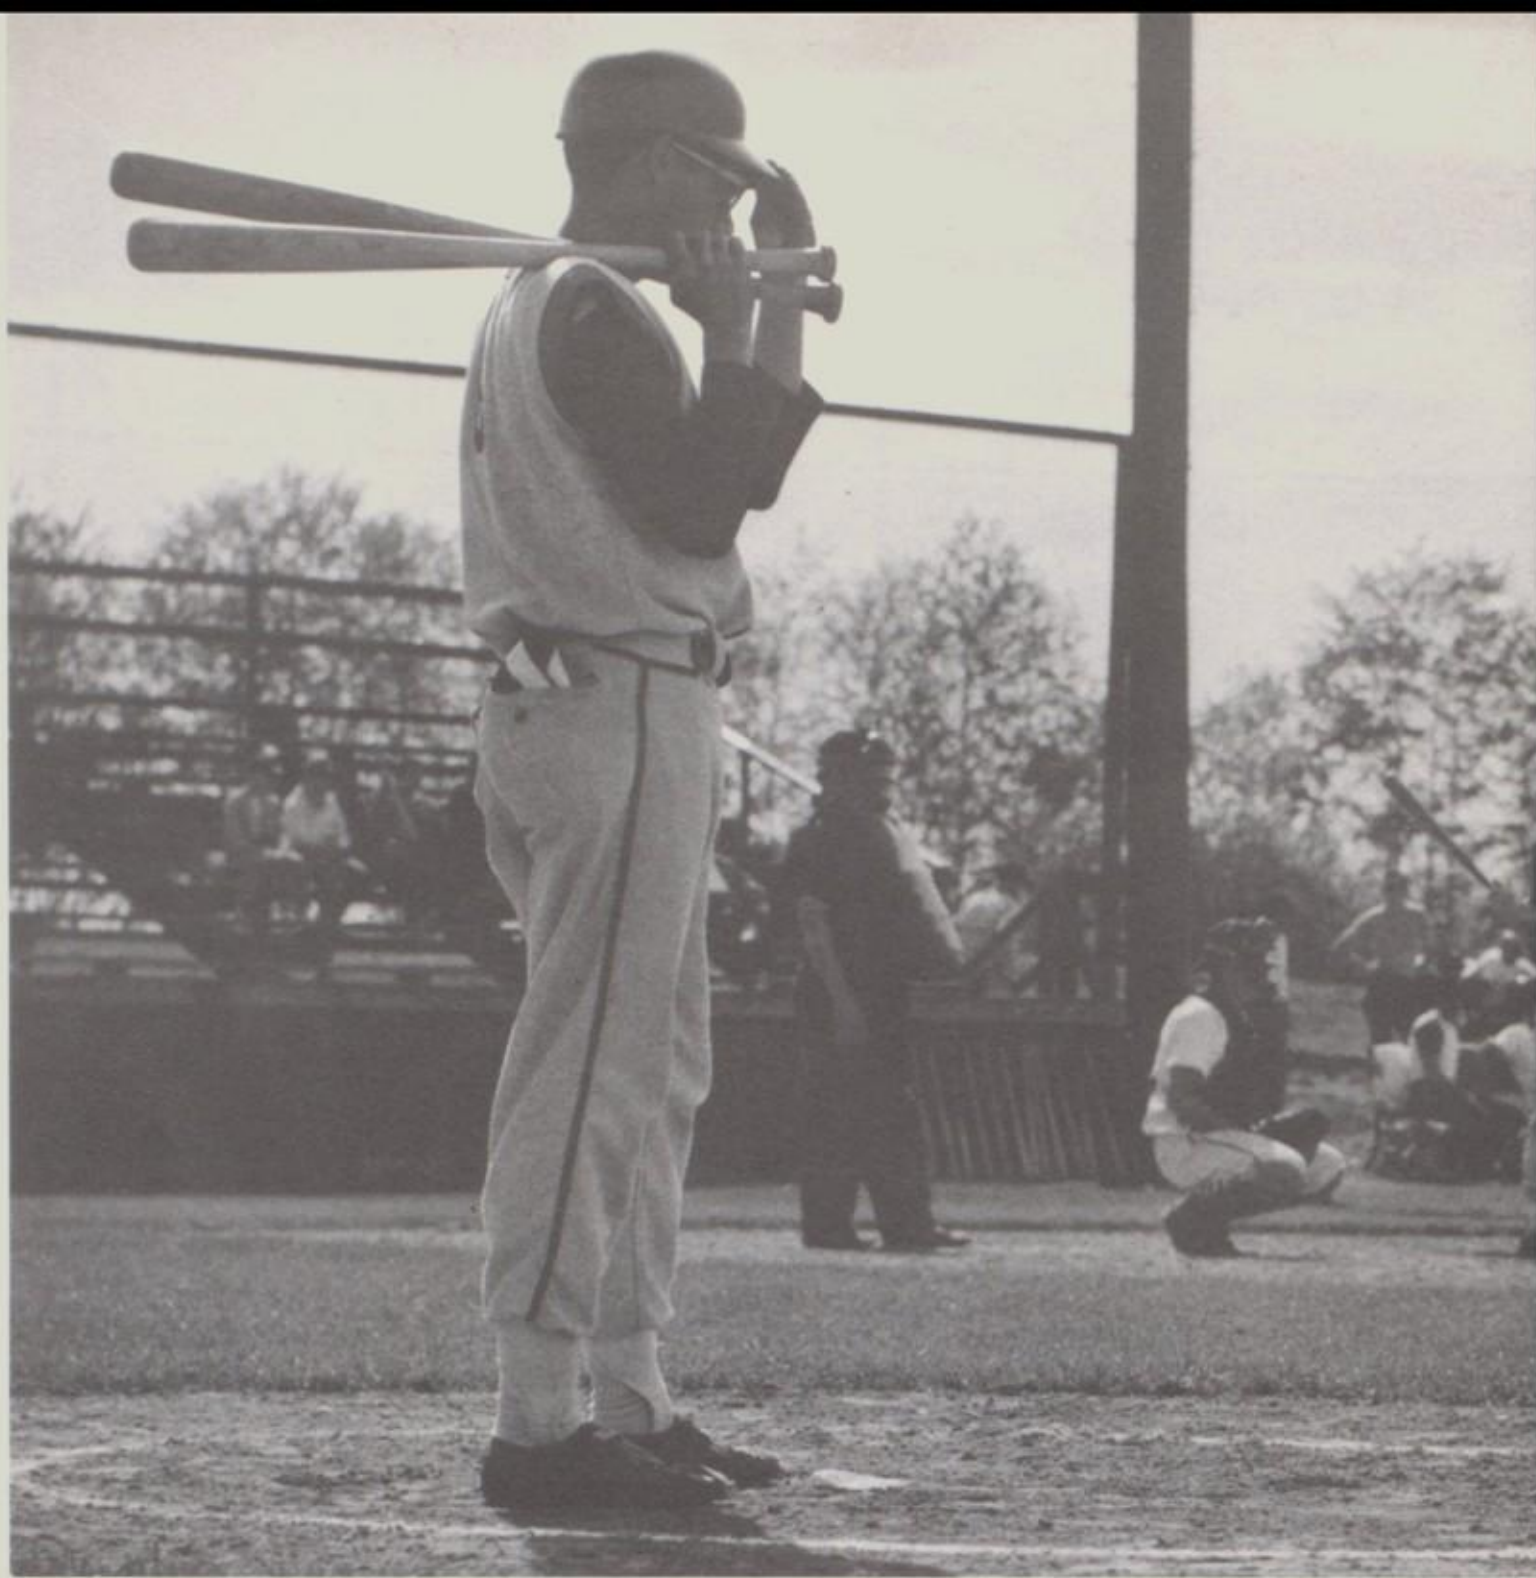

LOT unfolds as the characters progress in thought, word, and deed. With subtle intricacies, the story is woven and the characters are pulled into the design by the force of the action. Each operation is calculated to focus the reader's attention on that particular spot and to urge him to proceed with the work.

ONFLICTS, the discords of high school life, are many and varied. The physical aspects are best demonstrated by the rivalries and contests which exist between high schools in most fields of endeavor. The brief skirmishes of this sort which the characters encounter at the school will prepare them for warfare on a larger scale in the life ahead.

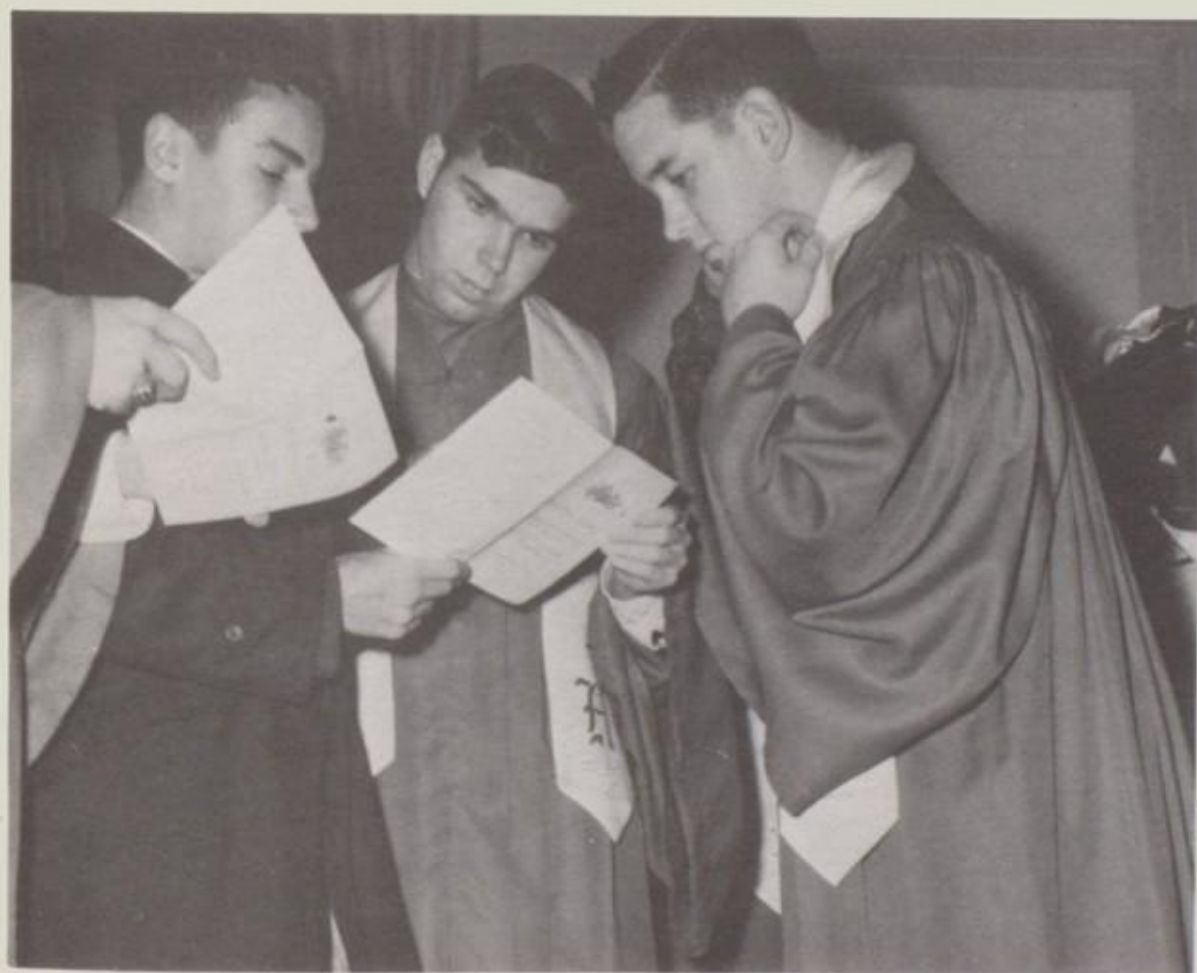

ONES of the musical thread woven into the inclining plot of high school life vibrate the harmony and discord so typical of each its characters.

Hours of individual and group practice go into every performance, be it a contest or a program to entertain the public. In turn each actor gains satisfaction from his accomplishments. While preparing for productions each develops an appreciation of music and builds a treasure of memoirs from this musical thread woven into the plot of his high school years.

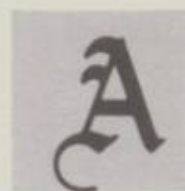

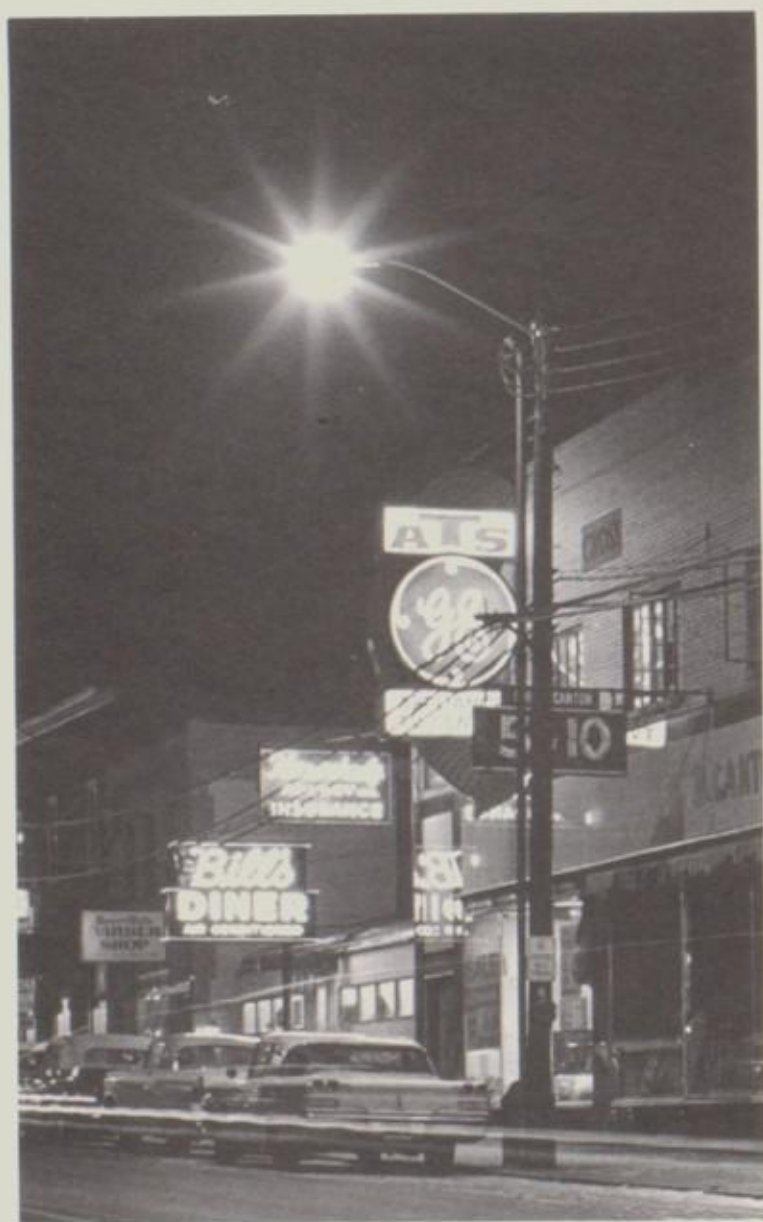

U

LIMAX culminates the activity of a story. This point is reached only after the deliberate and impromptu deeds of the characters have formed a kaleidoscope of plot and action. Every loose thread is connected to construct the final scene. The highpoint occurs and every character has his final resolution. The work is ended, the goals attained.

CKNOWLEDGMENTS are the sincere expressions of appreciation which one receives as notice of an act or achievement. The community has co-operated in a warm and friendly manner to support and encourage the school. The student body, the faculty, and the administration recognize the community as our major benefactor.

Setting

CHAPTER ONE

CROWDED halls and stairs, offices scattered unobtrusively throughout the building, a shining gym floor surrounded by bleachers, abundantly filled library shelves, well-worn athletic fields, and the teeming school parking lot are just a few of the familiar settings of school life. Seasons come and go bringing their changes in atmosphere, appearance, and activities. Minutes fly quickly as another school year passes. To the people who promote and maintain these diverse settings we devote this chapter.

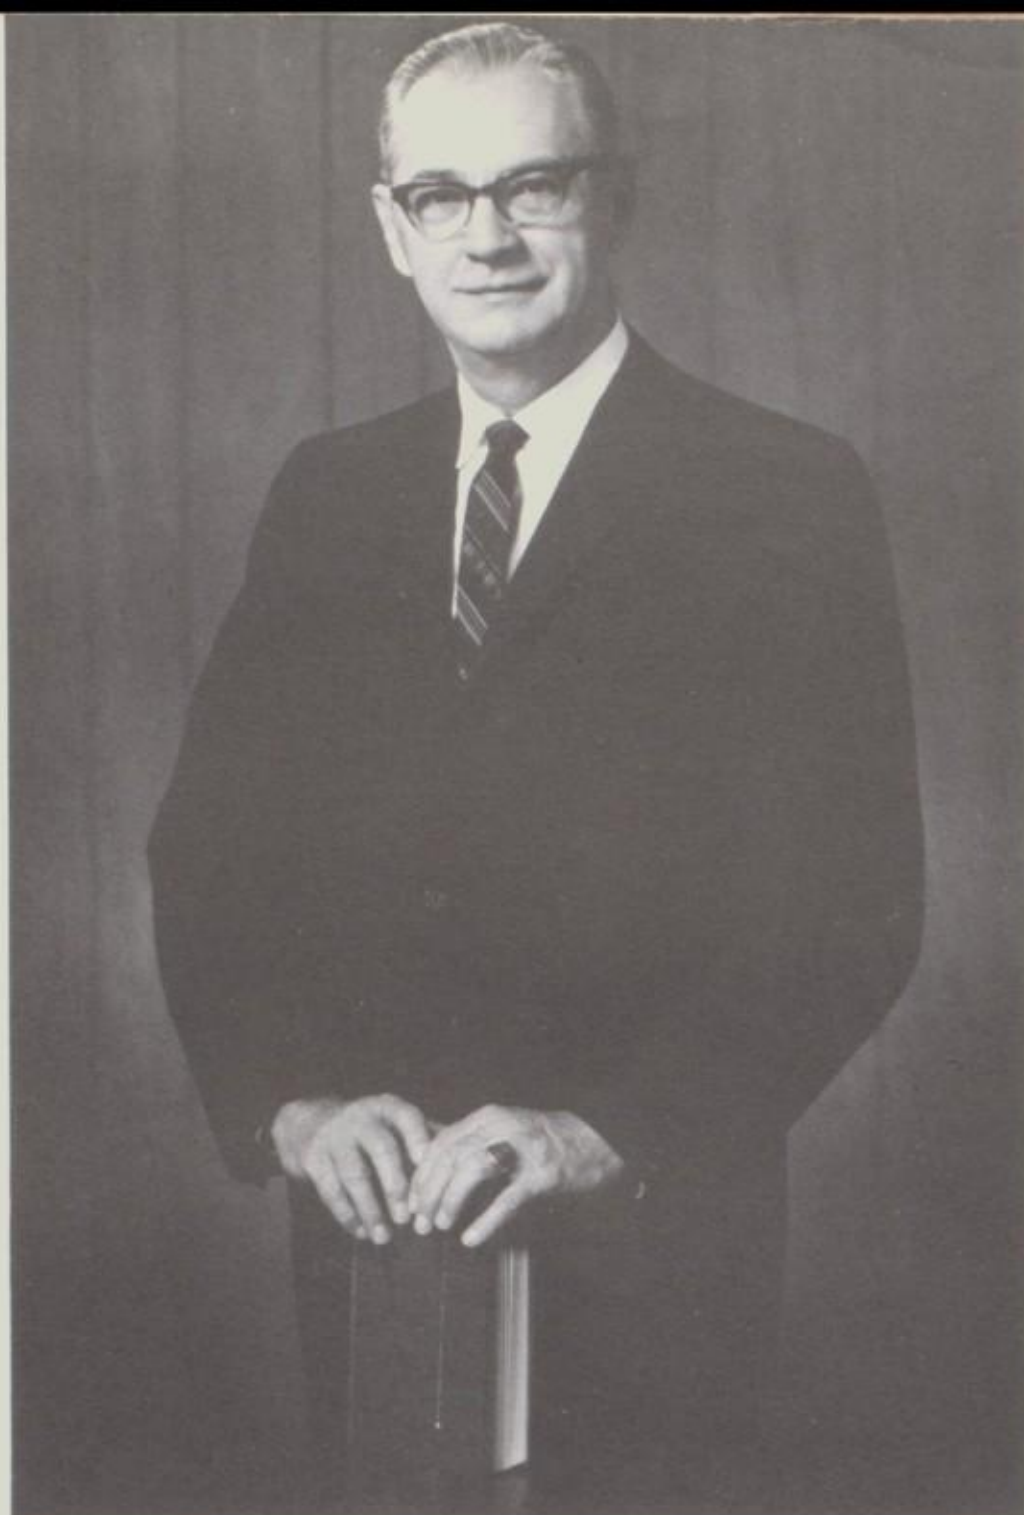

Superintendents Administer the Educational Policy

CHARLES E. BALLINGER
Assistant Superintendent
B.A., De Pauw University
M.A., Ohio State University

MRS. PEARL BROWN
Secretary, Superintendent's office

E. R. MALONE
Superintendent
B.S., Ohio Northern University
M.S., in Education
University of Akron

Mr. E.R. Malone served as the general administrator of the six North Canton public schools. His principal objective was to maintain a high quality educational system for the students of the community.

Mr. Malone's position as superintendent demanded that he perform many tasks and make countless decisions concerning the welfare of the schools. It was important for him to maintain a close relationship with principals, teachers, parents, and the general public. The hiring of school personnel and the planning of the academic curriculum to be followed were among his responsibilities.

This year Mr. Charles Ballinger filled the new position of Assistant Superintendent of Schools which was created in the administration. His work dealt mainly with curriculum and instruction.

As secretary to Mr. Malone and Mr. Ballinger, Mrs. Brown kept personnel records and issued purchase orders for educational supplies and equipment.

The knowledge and sincere interest which these people have demonstrated have been invaluable to the faculty, students, and citizens of North Canton.

Laymen Assist in Educational Planning

ROBERT BRAUCHER
Board of Education
Clerk-Treasurer

The Board of Education is an elected group that cooperates with the Superintendent of Schools to insure the finest education for North Canton youth.

Board members give the final approval to the Superintendent's selection of teachers and also approve the standards set for our educational system.

Mr. Braucher, clerk-treasurer of the Board, supervises building maintenance and transportation while Mrs. Tucker serves full-time in his office as the general bookkeeper.

This year the Board has dealt mainly with the school construction program and has determined the equipment which will be purchased for the new addition.

These men serve as representatives of the citizens and strive to understand and interpret the specific problems and needs of our schools.

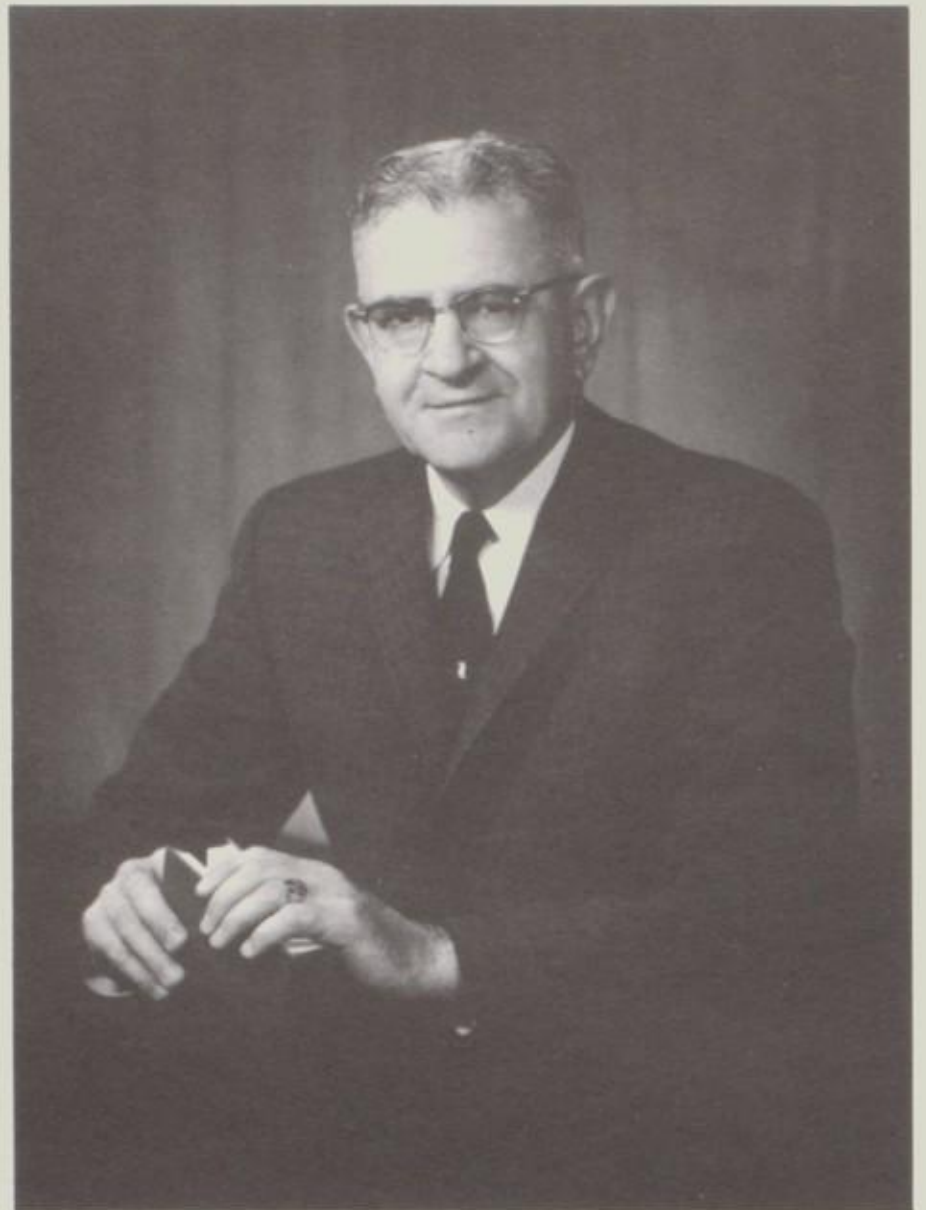

MRS. VALERIE TUCKER
Board of Education
Secretary

Principals Plan the Curriculum for a Well Rounded Education

Unity was the key thought in the administration of Mr. H. Wayne Russell, Principal of Hoover High School. While insuring a high standard of education, he has maintained a good relationship among administration, faculty, and students. He served these three groups as he coordinated all school activities.

Scheduling, faculty supervision, and student placement were among his duties. Students will always remember Mr. Russell's achievements, continuous determination, and deep understanding which have played so great a part in high school life.

H. WAYNE RUSSELL
Principal
B.A., Defiance College
M.A., Ohio State University
Ohio Northern University

In-service training session for the 1964-1965 school year was held in the new lecture room September 8.

Mr. Russell demonstrates an interest in one of the many aspects of high school life.

Administrative Assistants Promote Efficiency in School Life

DONALD C. LAHUE
Assistant Principal
Head of Mathematics Department
B.S., Kent State University
B.S. in Ed., Kent State University
M.E., Kent State University

MISS MABEL STUDER
Secretary, High School
Principal's Office
B.A., Bluffton College
Canton Actual Business College

MRS. ELIZABETH WILLIAMS
General Secretary,
High School Office

Working closely with Mr. Russell to correlate school activities is Assistant Principal Donald C. LaHue. It is his responsibility to manage attendance records. He strives to impress upon students the necessity of an education and the importance of regular attendance.

As Student Council adviser he won the respect and friendship of the students and offered valuable suggestions for solutions to the problem which confronted the entire student body.

The main office is the hub around which school functions rotate.

The high school office secretaries, Miss Mabel Studer and Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, have rendered many valuable services to the faculty and students. As Mr. Russell's secretary, Miss Studer efficiently manages official records, college transcripts, order requisitions, and correspondence. Mrs. Williams, the office receptionist, assists with attendance records, clerical duties, and financial reports.

The entire student body and faculty sincerely appreciate the efforts of the secretarial staff.

Guidance Provides the Basis for Understanding and Success

Under the direction of Mr. Richard Armstrong and Mrs. JoAnn Eckels, the guidance department is designed to prepare students for life in high school and immediately following graduation. Freshman orientation presents the many facets of school procedures. Students who request it receive guidance in personal and vocational problems and also interpretations of standardized test results.

Through the guidance office, students may obtain information regarding college applications, testing, scholarship programs, and financial aid opportunities.

Many students request guidance in the selection of a college.

MR. RICHARD ARMSTRONG
Director of Guidance
 Faculty Manager of Athletics
 Coach, Assistant Football
 B.A., Baldwin-Wallace College
 M.A., University of Akron

MRS. JOANN ECKELS
Guidance Counselor
 B.S., Concord College, West Virginia
 B.A., Marshall College, West Virginia

Through arrangements made by the guidance director, representatives of many area colleges and universities spoke to students regarding entrance requirements.

MRS. PAULINE KOLP
Guidance office secretary

Mrs. Eckels offered group guidance in freshman classes.

Mrs. Martha Hammack
Librarian

Time with Books Is Time Well Spent

Education has an extra quality because of extra hours spent in reading and intellectual exploration. Thus the library is so designed to serve as an integral part of the high school program.

Students are encouraged to use the library facilities for enjoyment and as an added means of perfecting their education. To introduce the effective use of the library the freshman guidance program is planned to include an orientation course during the first six weeks of the school year. Following this, class-room teachers implement library usage in their courses of study.

Departmental instruction is enriched by both the audio-visual and printed materials catalogued and housed in the school's materials center. To process and maintain these materials the librarian is assisted by one adult and 36 students.

Mrs. Marjorie Lewis
Library Secretary

Sandy Harris was one of the secretarial assistants in the library. Claudia Bredon, student librarian, performed various library assignments.

"Knowledge is of two kinds: we know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information upon it."

Samuel Johnson

The custodial staff spends many hours in cleaning, repairing, and maintaining school facilities. Their willing assistance in emergencies besides faithful completion of daily work maintains an immaculate and smoothly functioning school.

One of the nightly responsibilities of Arnold Willaman was to clean the guidance office.

Hours of waiting, noisy students, packed aisles and paper throwing are familiar to the bus drivers. They transport over three hundred students to and from the high school each day, make special trips with athletic, band, and speech groups, and keep the buses in good working order,

Bus Drivers. Row One: Zelma Gross, Iona Allen Pearle Leven-good, Helen Rudersmith, Dorothy Mortimer. Row Two: Franklin Stephens, Levi Sommers, Earl Paige, Alden Warfield, Joseph Bundy, Jack Reifsnyder.

Preparing food for nourishing meals in the cafeteria keeps the three cooks busy each morning. During the two lunch periods additional women supplement the kitchen staff as they help serve, clean up, and take money.

The familiar dust collector and mops aided Kenneth Willaman, Charles Thurman and John Givler in their janitorial duties.

Paul Venditti, Dick Miller, and Lowell Kreiner swept the gym after lunch period.

Dorothy Randall, Dorothy Williams, and Ruth Stayer prepared the noon meals for the cafeteria.

Annabelle Brown, Dorothy Wise, Annetta Farra, and Ruth Cavalier helped part-time in the kitchen.

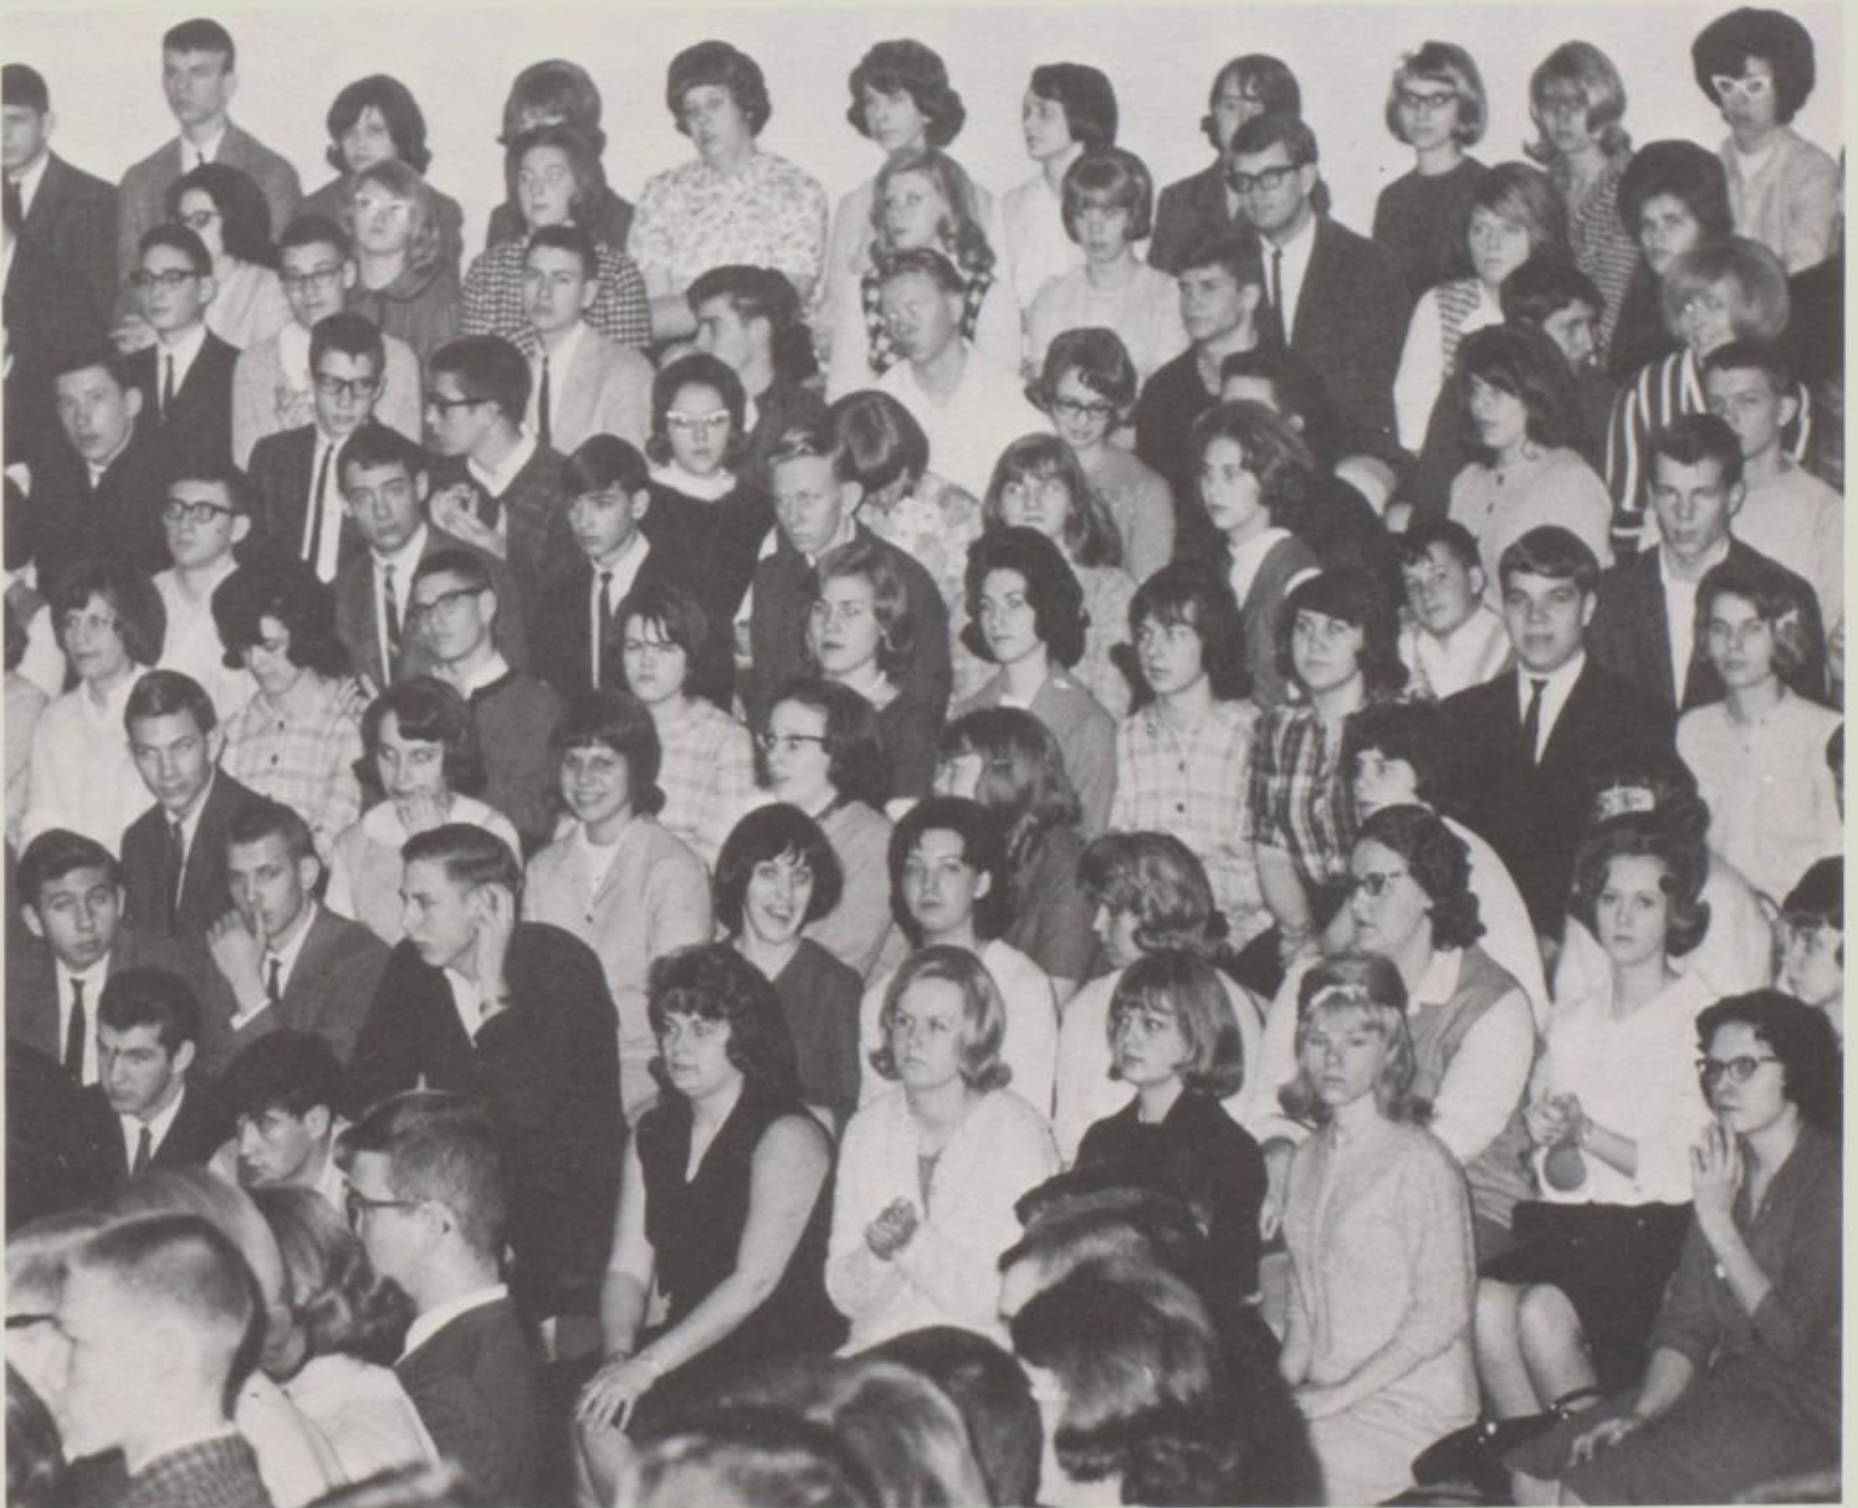

Characters

CHAPTER TWO

W

ITH the sound of the bell a throng of students streams into the corridors. Among them are the bookworm, the newcomer, the gangly underclassman, and the steadies. These major and minor characters change and take shape as they acquire knowledge, participate in extracurricular activities and develop associations. Each has an important role to play in the story of high school life. In the order in which they appeared on the scene we introduce the CLASSES.

Seniors Became 40th Graduating Class

Four years ago 325 Freshmen, the class of 1965, entered Hoover High as the largest beginning class to date. Through our years of study and activity we have demonstrated a desire to achieve and have developed a strong spirit of class unity.

Our athletes have displayed individual excellence and teamwork. Academically our class ranks high as evidenced by the eleven Seniors' placing in or above the 95th percentile on the General Scholarship Test.

High school years have left us with many felicitous memories among which are lunch in 107-109, Sophomore class party in L-4, and the highlight of the Junior year, Fiesta Espagnola, the prom. We also cherish impressive memories including National Honor Society inductions, the classes with devoted teachers, and thought-provoking assemblies, especially those presented at Christmas and Easter.

Burgundy and silver, our class colors, symbolize the lighter side of high school life; and the class flower, the peace rose, our hope and determination. Even after proudly reviewing four years of accomplishments, we humbly acknowledge "So little done — so much to do."

Juniors Assume a New Character of Leadership

Junior class officers were Janis Lothamer, historian; Mark Stevens, treasurer; Cindy Bailey, secretary; Dave Toole, president; Phil Sannes, vice-president.

On September 9, 1964, over 300 Juniors, many to bring recognition to our class, entered Hoover High to begin another school year. The outstanding students of the class ranked high in scholarship tests in almost every field of knowledge. Many of us were active in sports as exemplified by the fact that the majority of the basketball team was Juniors.

We have worked diligently this year to make the Junior-Senior Proma wonderful experience. Hard work and fellowship resulted in making the Prom something never to be forgotten.

We especially wish to extend our appreciation to our advisers, headed by Mr. Krabill for their kindness, consideration, and co-operation in helping to make this a rewarding year at Hoover.

Sophomores Anticipate Challenging Days

The class of '67 has shown an unusually high scholastic record during our first years at Hoover. Through the academic and athletic ability displayed by members of our class, we have proven ourselves a worthy contribution to the student body. Participation in extracurricular activities has helped us to become well-rounded students.

We wish to express our gratitude to the Hoover faculty and administrators whose efforts have made our first high school years long-lasting memories. As we end our sophomore year, we feel that our future years as upperclassmen will be even better than the years just past.

Freshmen Are Introduced to New Areas of Study

It was a hectic day for 312 Freshmen last September 9, 1964, when we entered Hoover High. We knew what was expected of us and worked to fulfill those requirements. Throughout this past year we have had many extra-curricular activities opened to us, including reserve and varsity athletics and a club or group to suit every one's interest. We would like to thank the teachers and the upperclassmen who have helped us throughout this year. The class of '68" is looking forward to three more exciting years at Hoover High.

Plot

CHAPTER THREE

Part One

AN ACCIDENTAL explosion in chemistry, an oral Civil War battle report, the final solution of some difficult math problems, and the mounting tension before exams are familiar incidents in the unfolding plot. Each student's curriculum includes the basic outline of required subjects and is developed through further study in courses of his choice. This section presents the rudimentary areas of study in ACADEMICS.

Language arts study is a composite of the fundamentals which are vital for intelligent thinking in the world today. Writing, speaking, and reading skills are component parts of the English department. Facilities for learning, emphasizing all three, are made available to all students. Both formal instruction and practical application are offered to students through courses of business English, speech, and a well-rounded four year program in formal English. Careful analysis of poetry and prose works prepares students for thoughtful action in everyday life. The third division of language arts study, that of improving reading rates, is also included as a basic skill. Statistics have shown that a rapid reader is often the most comprehensive reader as well.

Proficiency is Enhanced through Competitive Speaking

Membership in the National Forensic League promotes the encouragement and incentive required to become an effective speaker and hence a better leader. Under the guidance of Mr. Jesse McDowell, members participated in competitive speech events. Leadership was developed through debate, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, oratorical, humors, or dramatic declamations, or Student Congress.

Viking orators debated "Resolved: that nuclear weapons should be controlled by an international organization."

Akron University sponsored N.F.L. districts at which Jeff Mylett took second place in dramatic declamation. The debate team, who tied for fifth in the state last year, also placed and qualified for state finals in speech which were held March 19th and 20th in Columbus.

Many areas of study have been introduced into the three journalism classes this year. Public relations, advertising, photography, typography, reviews, and criticisms are to name but a few. New columns initiated into the pages of the VIKING VIEWS were "Time-out," a hobbies column, and a classroom news column.

A different editorial staff, appointed by the adviser, maintained the leadership of the newspaper for each semester. It was the responsibility of the staff and the journalism students to meet their deadlines every three weeks.

The National Thespian Society, advised by Mr. Rex Spaulding, provides dramatic activity for Hoover students. Cast members learn the techniques of acting and also the role of production.

World Communication Is Improved through Removal of Language Barriers

Language is a great bridge which unites men, communities, and nations in a common bond of understanding. Communication of thoughts and ideas can break down social barriers and help insure peace. In a world where misunderstanding has devastating effects, the study of foreign languages is paramount for aiding world-wide understanding.

Facilities Stimulate Learning by Practical Application

The classroom facilities and language labs aided many students in acquiring a working knowledge of French or German. Hearing and speaking these modern foreign languages played as important a role in learning as translating passages and writing exercises. Through this type of program the students received a well-rounded foundation in languages which are an important asset in many phases of life today.

Latin gives a student practice in drills which no other course of study can offer. Most important of all, the language of ancient Rome forms the basis for many of the words in our own English language.

Several new facets of learning have been added to the curriculum this year in the area of foreign languages. Latin III is now being offered at Hoover, after having been discontinued for two years. This provides an opportunity for a major in Latin. Students in German II have been reading newspapers printed in German, and this year the French II classes subscribed to a newspaper printed in French. These advances helped to augment the basic fundamentals of learning a foreign language.

Individual language lab facilities enable students to learn at their own rates.

A basic knowledge of science is advantageous to everyone. Its study is beneficial not only to college-bound students, but to those beginning careers directly after graduation, because a knowledge of science promotes an understanding of everyday happenings and phenomena. Hoover's science department, headed by Mr. Robert H. Dobson, offers a variety of courses ranging from the overall picture available in general science to the intensified study in PSSC physics.

Taught by Mr. Knisely and Mr. Geiger, general science introduces students to the variety of topics which fall under the extensive heading of science. The senses, plant life, elementary physical laws, and electricity are but small segments of the material included in this course. By requiring science projects, the teachers reveal more of the wide scope of science and give pupils the opportunity to do research in a particular field. General science prepares freshmen for more detailed study in additional science courses at Hoover.

Students learn about the earth and its solar system through the use of scale models.

A better realization of anatomical structure can be obtained through the dissection of the starfish.

The microscope enables students to explore the cellular world.

Biology Classes Invade the Plant and Animal Kingdoms

Biology, the study of plant and animal life, was a new experience for sophomores. For the first time they were confronted with a laboratory arrangement, dissections, and the pungent odor of formaldehyde. Mr. Gray and Mr. Dent used lecture periods to explain the various functions of plants and animals, their nervous, digestive, respiratory, and arterial systems. The lab enabled the students to picture the structures about which they were learning. Among the projects required throughout the year were the leaf and insect collections. Many sophomores gained a better understanding of the world around them while tramping through the woods with a butterfly net in their hands.

Elements, Equations, and Odors are Synonymous with the Study of Chemistry

Observation was the key word in chemistry. In this course juniors performed redox experiments, made esters, and broke test tubes. Because so much emphasis was placed on observation, each student soon learned to watch all chemical reactions carefully. Mr. Lebold and Mr. Wiandt taught this course which offers a study of the elements, chemical bonds, the properties of gases, and the hydrocarbon series. Except for the required projects, the highlight of the year was probably the time spent on quantitative analysis. These units presented an insight into one of the many professions associated with chemistry, chemical research, and also helped to eliminate the idea that chemistry is only memorization and lists of reaction formulas.

Physics Investigates Electricity, Mechanics, and Optics

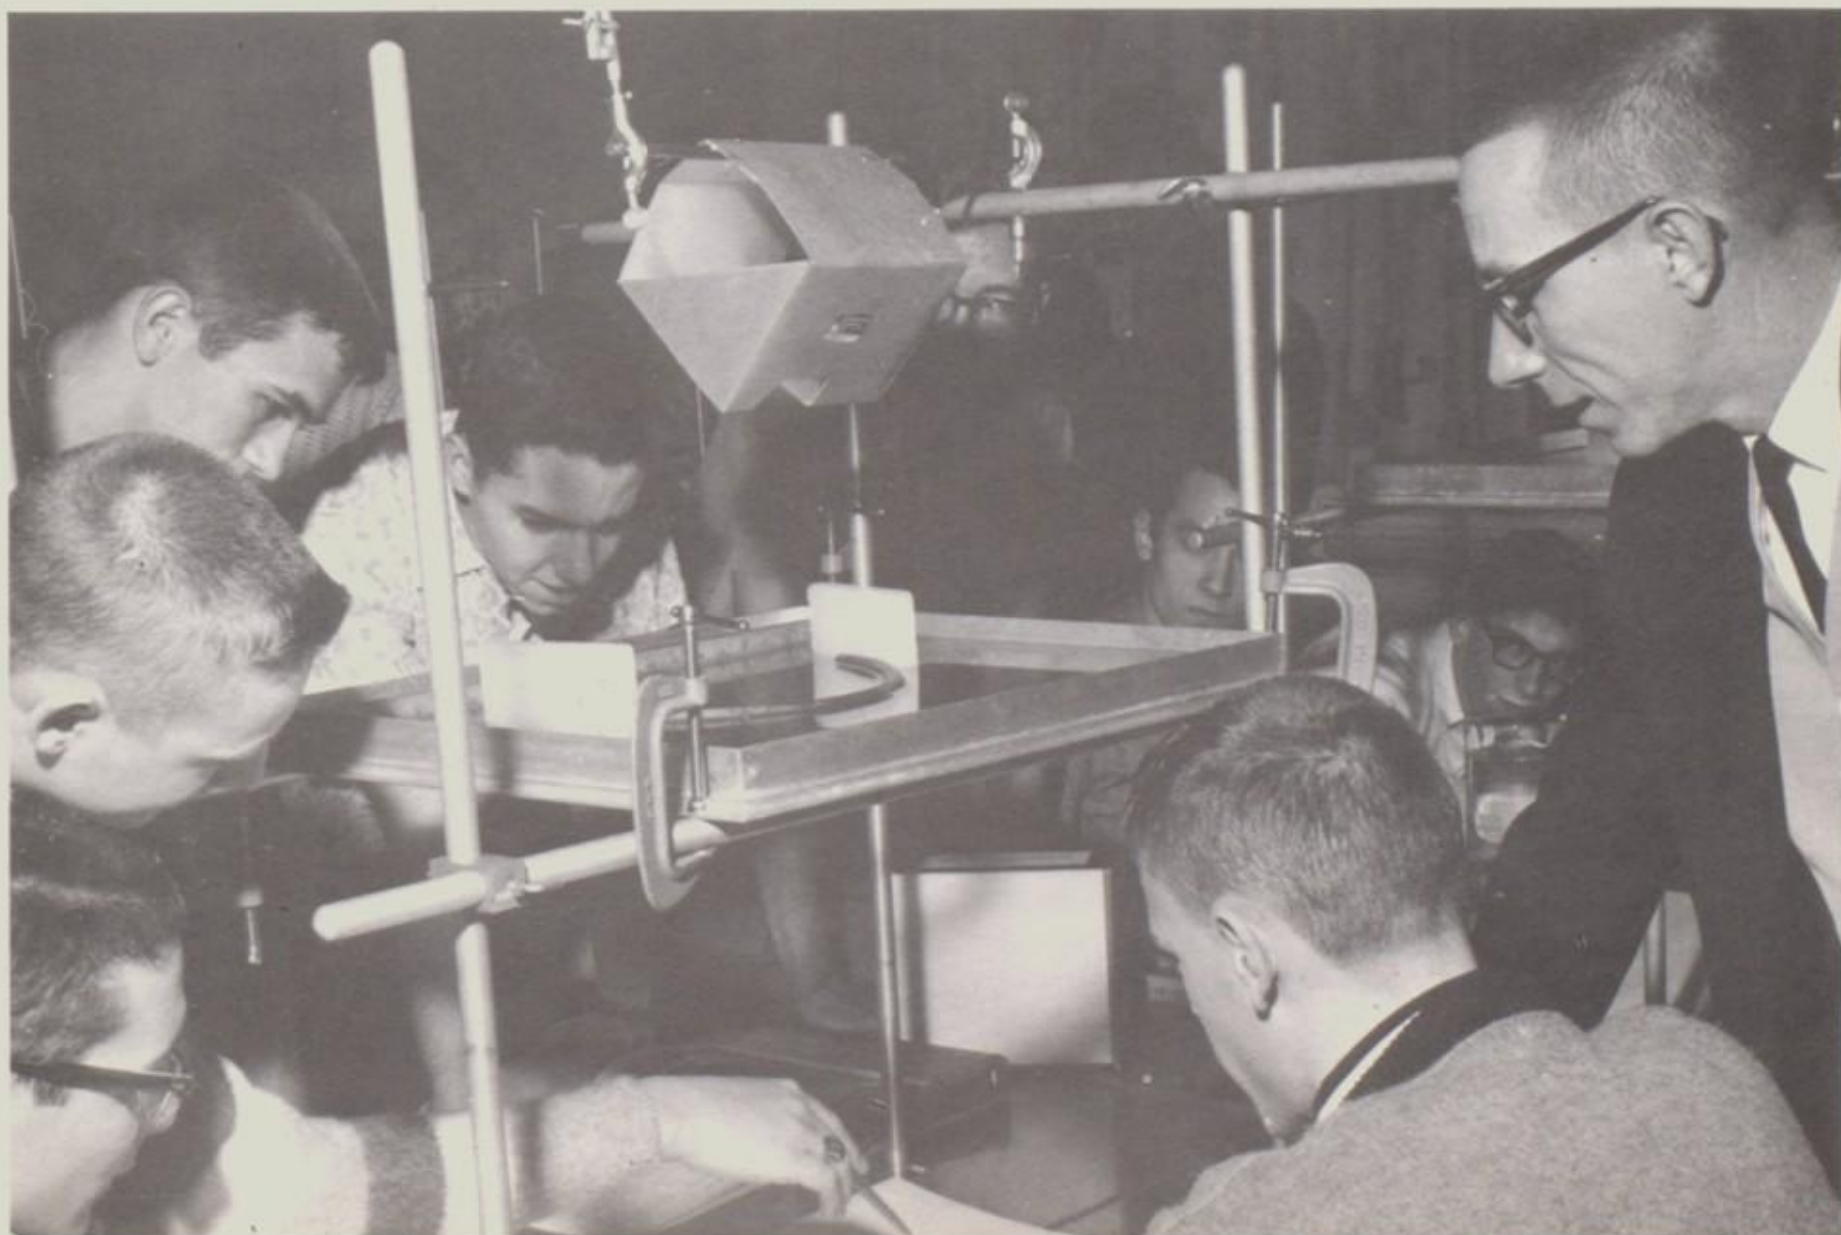

The graphing of pertinent data often reveals significant relationships.

ROBERT DOBSON
Physics
Head of Science Dept.
B.S. in Ed., Ohio State University
M.A., Antioch College

Two courses of physics are offered in the science program. Practical physics deals with the fundamental laws of physics, electricity, and machines. The Physical Science Study Committee (PSSC) of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has prepared the other course. Emphasis is placed upon theory of laws. Supplementary reading and movies enable PSSC students to further understand subject matter presented in the classroom. Physics laboratory with its unique equipment ranging from soda straws to expensive electrical apparatus, also helps students in their study.

Ripple tank experiments confront students with questions concerning the wave theory of light.

"The democratic process is best learned through actual participation in the machinery of our government." This is the principle upon which Girls' State and Boys' State, held each summer at state universities, have been established and operated. Hoover's representatives to Girls' State at Capitol University and their offices were Vivienne Martin, State Director of Public Health; Nancy Strauch, a lobbyist in the Senate; and Jeani Smith, Fire Chief in her city and a member of the State Board of Health. At Boys' State, sponsored by Ohio University, David Martin served as a lawyer and Assistant Director of State Finance and Dale Stitz as Clerk of Courts.

MARION KRABILL

RAYMOND SWOPE
American Government
B.A., Mount Union College
M.A., Ohio State University

In our modern world of political turmoil and ideological disputes where peaceful co-existence is difficult to maintain, a good understanding of social studies is imperative. World history provides students with a basic background of our world during periods of early development, imperialism, and international strife. In American History juniors trace our country's development from a small group of individual states to the powerful leader of the free world. American government students examine the procedures and functions of our government from its humble beginning in 1787 to the election of President Johnson in 1964. However, good government does not depend exclusively on the knowledge gained, but primarily on the practical application of that knowledge.

Group discussions acquaint government students with America's domestic and foreign problems.

Mr. Krabill unfolds our country's political and economic development for an attentive history class.

The mathematics department offers a complete four-year program to provide its students with the knowledge of mathematics that is so essential in this atomic age.

Algebra is the branch of mathematics which deals with the relations and properties of numbers by means of letters, signs of operation, and solutions of equations. In geometry one investigates the relations, properties, and measurements of points, lines, planes, and solids. Senior math offers further preparation for college math and includes trigonometry, college algebra, analytic geometry, and calculus.

The Mathematics Club is an organization composed of students who wish to broaden their knowledge in the field of mathematics. The club specializes in topics which are not normally mentioned or covered in the classroom. A variety of programs are planned for the members. This year they consisted of movies, field trips, and lectures. Men experienced in the mathematical fields delivered informational lectures. Program time was also provided for members to discuss phases of mathematics of their major interest. Field trips were probably the most interesting programs because they gave the students an opportunity to see the practical application of mathematics. Trips to computer center and Hoover-Price planetarium were not only interesting but also very beneficial.

CHAPTER THREE

Part Two

A WOOD table, a corduroy jumper, a research paper, and a headstand characterize student accomplishments in practical arts. Courses in home economics, business, and industrial arts develop practical skills, build confidence through personal achievement and prepare students for employment in many fields. Physical education classes advance personal fitness and well-being. This additional section intertwined inseparably with the first reveals itself in continuing ACADEMICS.

A student applies the final touch.

The Home Economics Club chose as its theme "Home Economics and Its Related Fields." Programs for the meetings were designed specifically to augment this theme. The members of the club heard many speakers, among them a home economics teacher, a hospital dietician, a social worker, and a department store buyer. The Home Ec. Club also sponsored a successful cooking contest and awarded a prize to the winner in each division.

Girls Prepare for Homemaking Careers

The study of home economics prepares girls both for establishing successful homes and for careers in homemaking.

Classroom work was composed of both textbook instruction and practical experience. Freshmen and sophomores were concerned primarily with foods and clothing. They studied nutritional values as well as cooking techniques, styling as well as sewing mechanics.

Juniors and seniors explore the areas of interior decorating and family living. Included in these courses were home nursing, cake decorating, and other more specialized skills which were further preparation for girls' future lives as homemakers.

Industrial Arts Develop Vocational Skills

Today many of our fast expanding and progressing industries depend on vocational schools and industrial programs to train students for the technical positions of industry. The industrial arts program introduces the students to the science of mechanical operations, which trains the hands as it develops the mind.

The school initiates its program with woodworking which teaches the fundamentals of operating machines and offers an opportunity to test these skills. Actual participation in production develops student efficiency and pride in work produced while creating a deeper interest in the area.

The graphic art program which includes printing and mechanical drawing, requires more technical skill and is available for the juniors and seniors. Experiences in printing include setting the type and operating the press. Mechanical drawing deals with designs, sketches, and plans for construction work. Graphic arts is not only important to those students who will make their careers in the field, but also to the millions who read their printed articles.

The Print Club is extra-curricular and is open to all students in Printing I and II who desire to better themselves in this printing field. Its purpose is two-fold: members are given practical experience in perfecting various types of printing and time is afforded for money-making projects. School stationery, assignment books, and many other articles which are used by the students at Hoover High are printed by the members of the organization. Profits from these projects are returned to the club for printing equipment which will be valuable to future clubs as well as to the present. Projects are organized and started at regular meetings; however, members devote much additional time to the completion of them.

Physical Education Develops Co-ordination and Sportsmanship

International competition in the Olympics requiring physical skills and endurance has stressed the importance of physical fitness programs in high school. The freshmen and sophomores spent the year as active participants in an extensive program of this type. Exercises at the beginning of each period limbered up the students for the more strenuous activities including baseball, basketball, kickball, and tumbling. In addition to increasing proficiency, the gym sessions promoted sportsmanship in both individual and team competition.

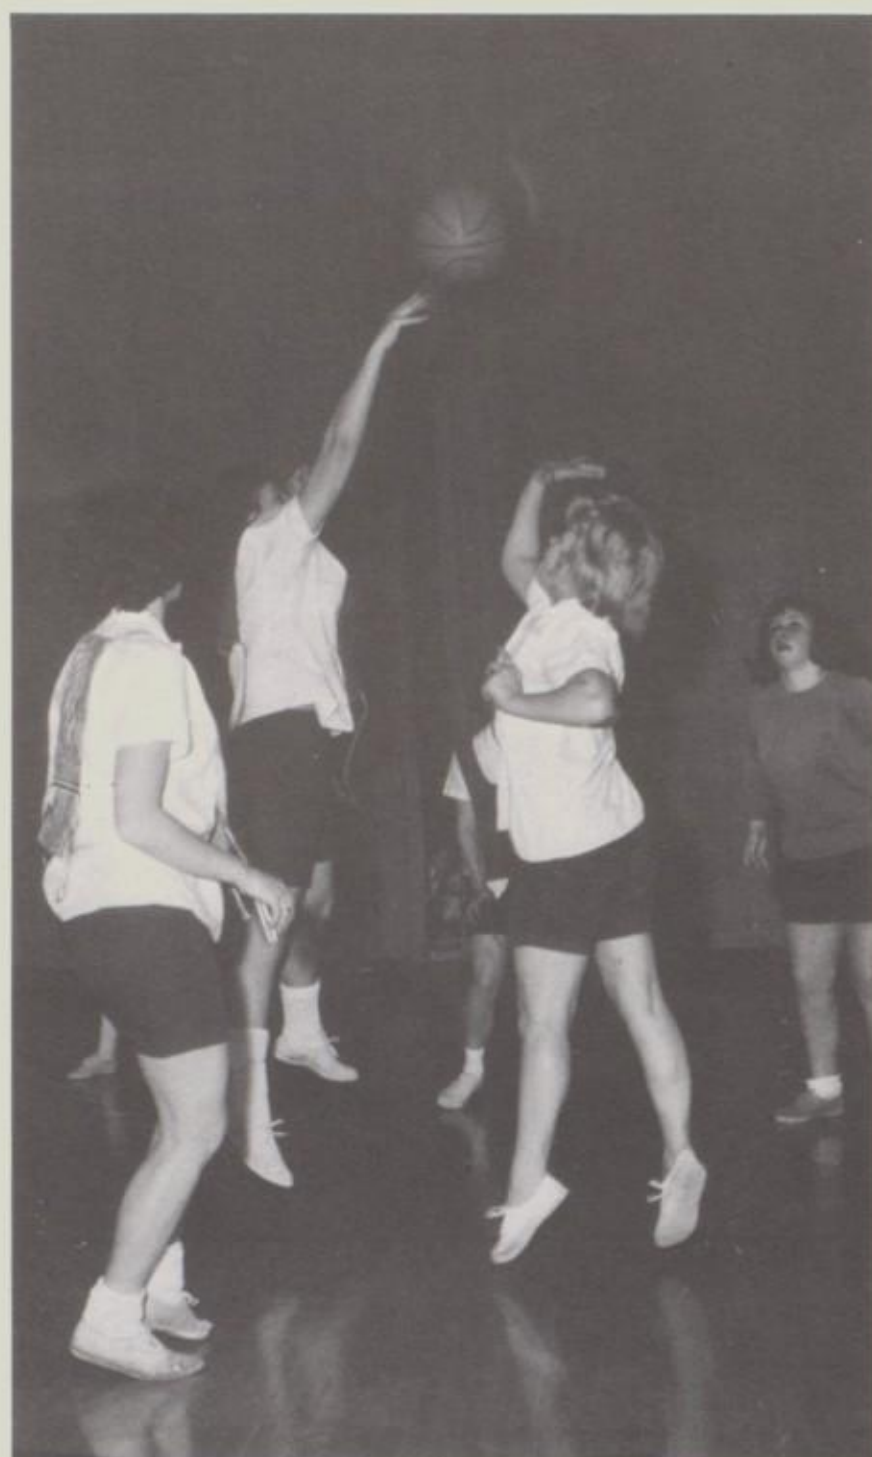

Every freshman found a required health course in his curriculum. Much time was devoted to the study of anatomy, physiology, first-aid, and beneficial health habits.

Intramural basketball teams were established during the lunch periods for those boys desiring more physical activity. For six weeks each of the twelve teams played its best, constantly vying for the coveted championship which was awarded to the most successful team after a week-long tournament.

Girls Enjoy Sports, Too

The goal of the Girls' Athletic Association is to promote and maintain an interest in sports and to develop qualities of good sportsmanship and leadership among high school girls. Volleyball, kickball, dodgeball, basketball, badminton, rope climbing, and various recreational games were activities at the regular meetings. G.A.A.'s "All-Star" volleyball and basketball teams played inter-scholastically. Special events held throughout the year included a swim party, Christmas caroling, bowling, overnight camping, and fall and spring playdays. Parents participated with students in several annual events, Mother-Daughter Volleyball Night, G.A.A.-Women Faculty Volleyball Night, Dad-Daughter Date Night and the Mother-Daughter Banquet.

Tone

CHAPTER FOUR

FAMILIAR strains of a Sousa march, the dignified "Pomp and Circumstance," and the "Alma Mater" create distinct moods for events throughout the school year. Inspiring, entertaining, and instructive tones are emanated by members of the music department at pep rallies, football games, concerts, and contests. Hours of practice and performance benefit both the performer and his audience by introducing them to the expressive moods of MUSIC.

The Hoover High School orchestra, consisting of 32 members, performed several times this year. The orchestra played for the North Canton Music Association and for graduation ceremonies. Mr. Hafer conducts a practice for the annual THANK-YOU CONCERT.

At the conclusion of football season the band ceased its marching practice and became the Hoover High Concert Band. With conscientious daily practice the band prepared for its two annual concerts. The first, a Thank-You Concert, was performed to express the appreciation of the band for the community's support. The music varied from snappy, rhythmic marches to dignified, symphonic pieces with a few popular program pieces interspersed. As an addition to the regular concert schedule the band attended contest this year for comments to provide a basis for further improvement. There can be no doubt that this year's concert band was one of the best Hoover has ever had.

Half-time Shows Reflect Planning and Practice

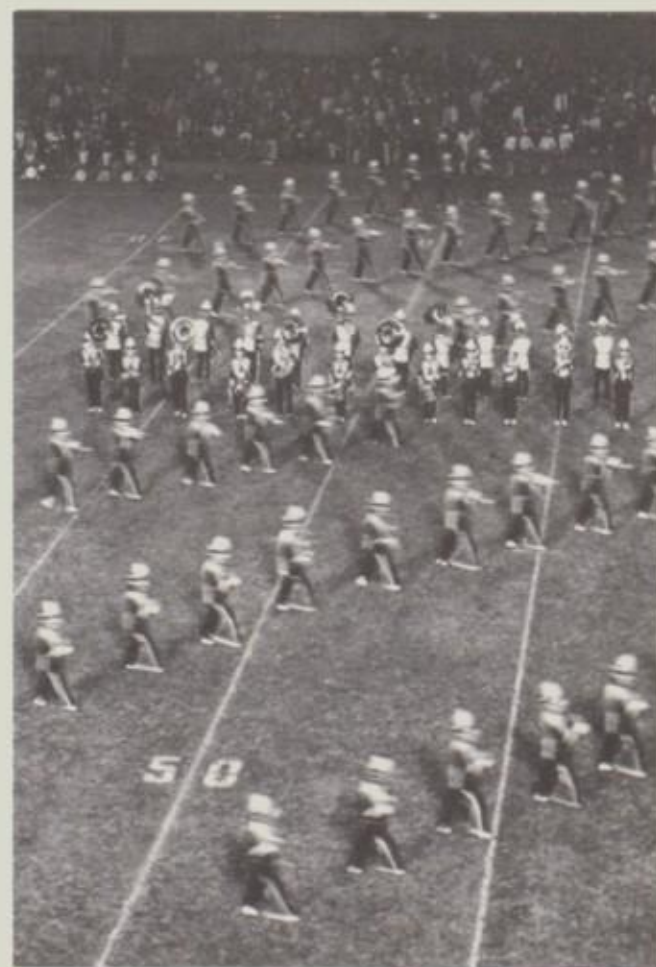

Spirited tones of the marching band cut through the crisp autumn air of football season. A week at Camp Chibiabos and extra summer practices had developed the individual marchers into a working unit. Most of the half time shows were precision drills led by the majorettes and executed to fast-moving marches. Occasionally the band also plays concert music selections. All activity on the field was directed by the head majorette. Throughout pep rallies, pre-game, and half time the marching band added extra spark to school spirit.

The majorettes who led the band down the football field were Linda McKinney, Sondra Preda, Kathy Moor, Karen Chipps, Susan Davis, Diane Musgrave, and center Barb Hilscher, head majorette.

"All That Was Ever Joyous ... Music Doth Surpass"

Shelley

The A Cappella Choir under the direction of Mr. Martin Alexander engaged in many hours of practice to produce both inspirational and educational programs for its audiences.

Forty-six sopranos and altos, blending voices with thirty-four tenors and basses, participated in several programs during the school year. The classical and contemporary music of the annual Christmas concert included the modern selection, "The Three Kings," by Healy Willan. The theme song, "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," and other holiday carols were sung around the Hoover Company's tree at the traditional community sing. Highlight of the spring events was the Spring Concert at which senior choristers were recognized.

The Hi-Lows, twenty select voices of the choir, devoted much time and effort to represent the school at church and club engagements.

Conflict

CHAPTER FIVE

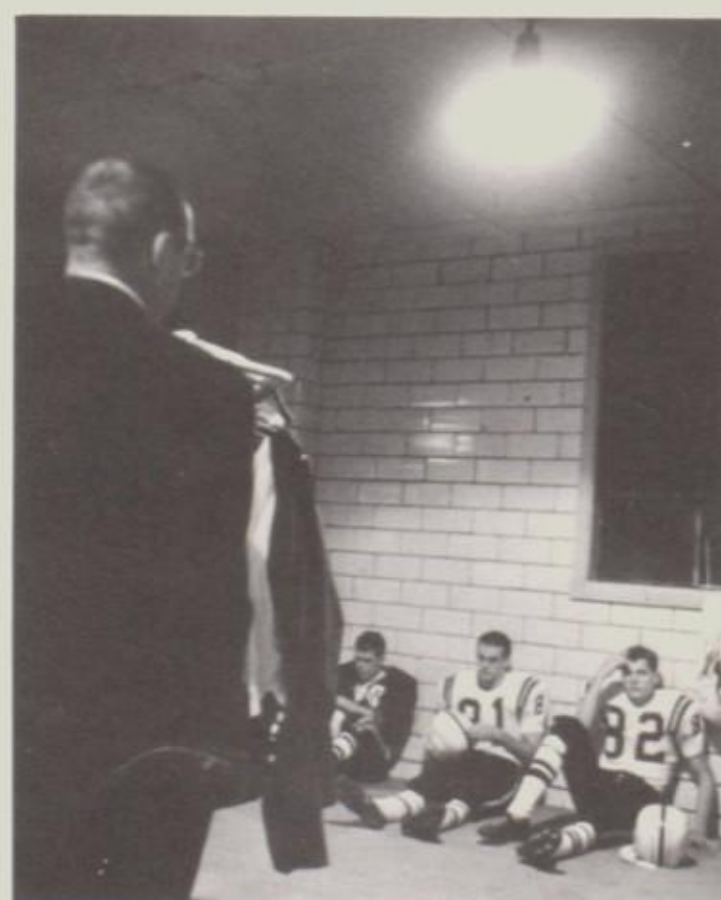

TRAINING muscles, heightened emotions, quickened reflexes, and deliberate actions indicate conflict. Individuals and teams struggle to plan strategy, perfect skills, and build endurance. Through competition, athlete and spectator experience the humility of defeat and the exhilaration of victory. The thrill and satisfaction of pinning an opponent, sinking a decisive shot, or crossing the goal line can only be experienced in ATHLETICS.

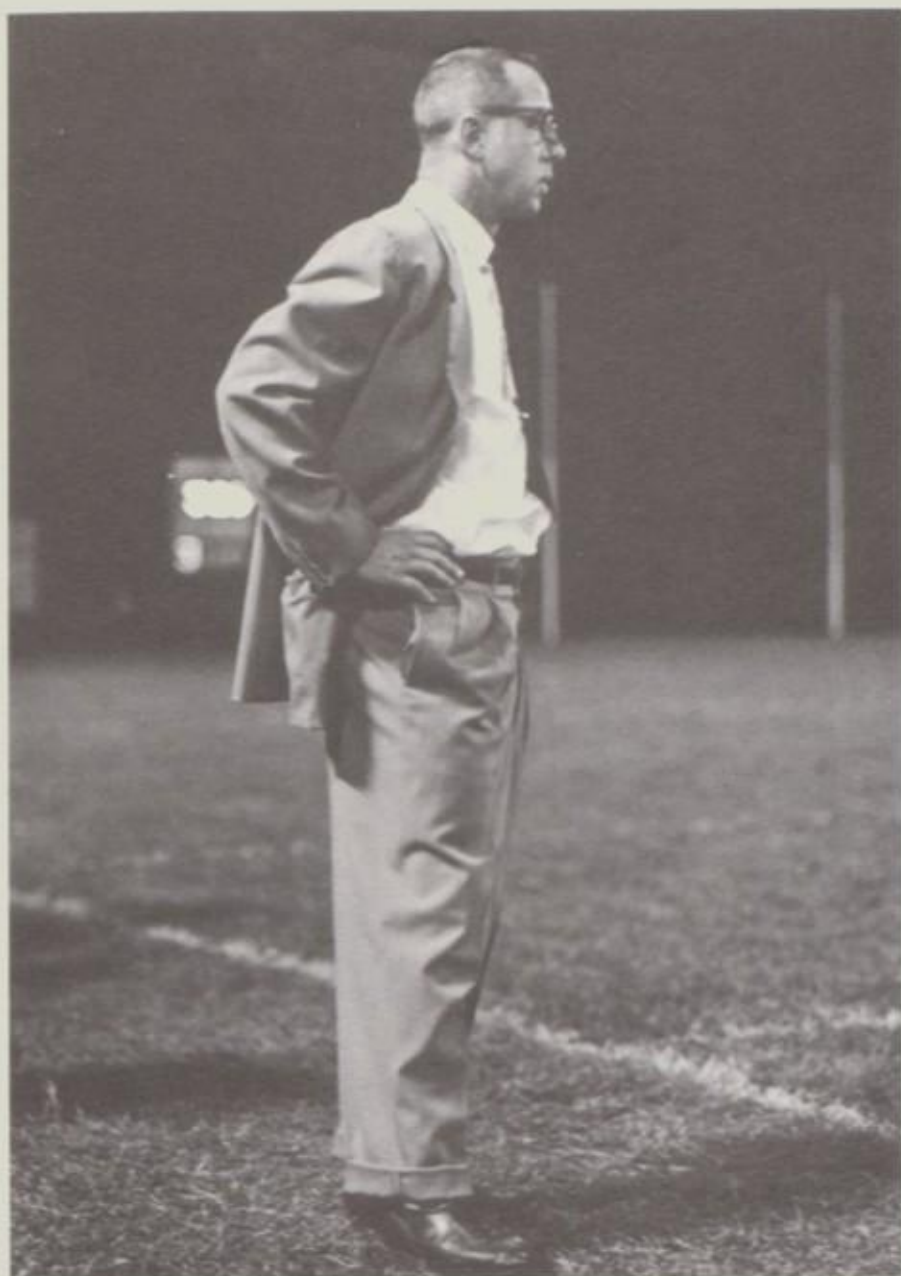

Halfback Bernardino uses Jeff Myers' blocking ability to its fullest advantage.

Gridders Overcome Size to Win Big

Despite the lack of real size on the squad, the 1964 Viking footballers surprised most area fans and perhaps even themselves by grinding out a fine 8-2 record under the direction of Coaches Hertler, Knisely, and Armstrong. They lost only to Jackson in a real heartbreaker and to Louisville who finished high in the state ranking. What the team lacked in beef was compensated by the fellows' great speed, agility, and just as important, desire and determination to win. The come-from-behind game at Glenwood was an illustration of the latter two virtues. The linemen were led by Mark Stevens and Francis "Butch" Paquin who, at season's end, were honored to be named to the all-county teams as a first-string guard and a second-string tackle, respectively. The backfield was sparked by quarterback and crack passer Greg Gray, half-backs Greg Fischer, Rick DeBlander, and Mike Bernadino, and fullback Barry Miller, who, after joining the team in mid-season, led his teammates in the scoring column.

Viking co-captains Fischer and Paquin were leaders both on and off the field.

Hoover Reserves Have a Sparkling Future

The reserve squad coached by Virgil Stroia and Jack Yost compiled an enviable 7-2-1 record which indicates a bright outlook for future seasons. The season was highlighted with a win over Canton Lincoln and resounding victories over the Canton Timken and Canton South J.V. Teams. Boys in the reserve football limelight included left-handed quarterback Bob Mallard, speedsters Mike Wilson and Jim Allen, and fullback Jim Braucher. The line was characterized by the pass catching of Ken Rud-dock and Jeff Southworth, and the fine blocking of Al Machamer, Denny Kolp, Scott Sturtz, and Pete Gilpatric.

Freshmen Gained Valuable Experience

Although the 1964 Freshman football team coached by Joe McKay and Paul MacDonald accumulated a record of 2 wins, 6 losses, and a tie, the season can be considered worthwhile, because it gave these players, Hoover's future varsity, the valuable experience of playing high school football. The thirty-two Freshmen who made the big jump into the rougher, meaner ranks were led on the line by ends Dan Cook and Steve Edwards, tackle Stephen Pool, guard Gale Stephanic, and in the backfield by Lee Erdman, Chuck Caniford, Lee Zwick, and Bob Dewey, who led his frosh mates in scoring.

Cross Country Team Compiled Fine Record

The winning tradition in cross country was once again achieved as the Viking harriers compiled a fine 5-1 record in dual competition and held their own in several triangular and quadrangular meets. As the season began, the team promised to be one of the strongest in the school's history, but the disability of senior veteran, Charles Tifft, greatly eased the problems of North Canton's opponents. In Coach Paul Barrett's opinion, the team could have captured the district crown had Tifft been able to run.

Bill Dimit, Bob LeCount, Chick Cropley, Dave Heckaman, and Bruce Neuman placed in the district. Cross country fans can look forward to a successful team next year because four of these boys will be returning as experienced runners.

McKay Employs Fast Break, Hustle

Joseph McKay, an enthusiastic young basketball coach, came to Hoover with the difficult task of rebuilding a sound basketball program. With only two returning lettermen, and lack of height, he proceeded to form a young, well-conditioned team.

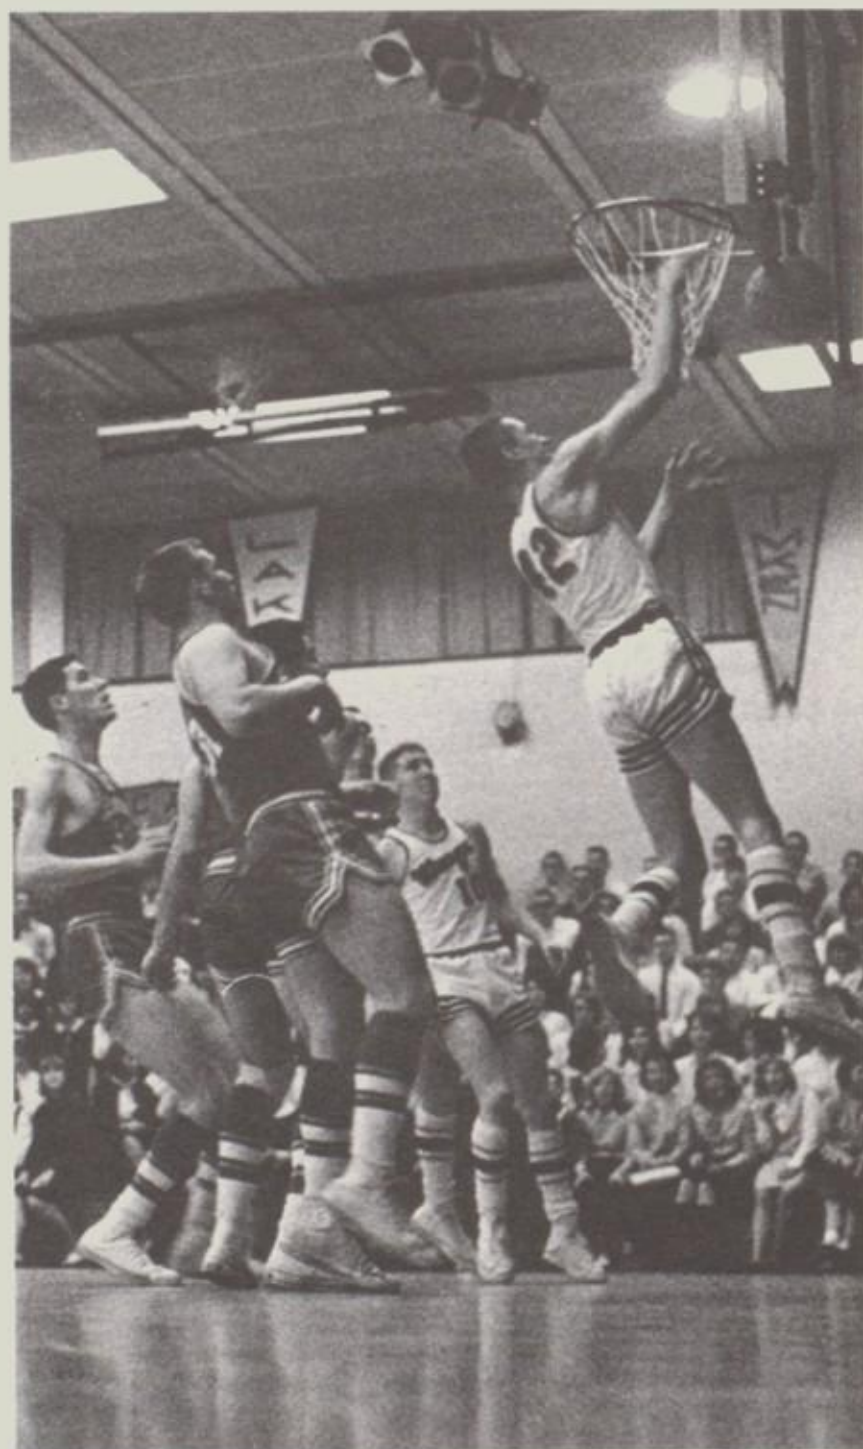

The Vikings, hampered at times by injuries, and faced with one of the toughest schedules of the school's history, produced a 5-14 record. Despite this record, the team, consisting of only one senior, learned the fundamentals of basketball. Although the going went rough at times, the team kept its spirit and sportsmanship of which they should be proud.

Rick DeBlander, who received Stark County honorable mention, and Greg Gray, the Viking's top scorer and rebounder, obtained special recognition.

The Viking Reserves, an all-sophomore squad, began the year as an inexperienced but tenacious crew. As the year went on, they gained the knowledge and fundamental skills necessary to play good basketball.

The reserves boasted a balanced team, and most of the boys saw a good bit of action at one time or another. Although they compiled only a 4-14 record, their improvement was shown by a final 51-41 victory over Glenwood on the Glenwood gym, after being humbled by the same team at home by twenty points.

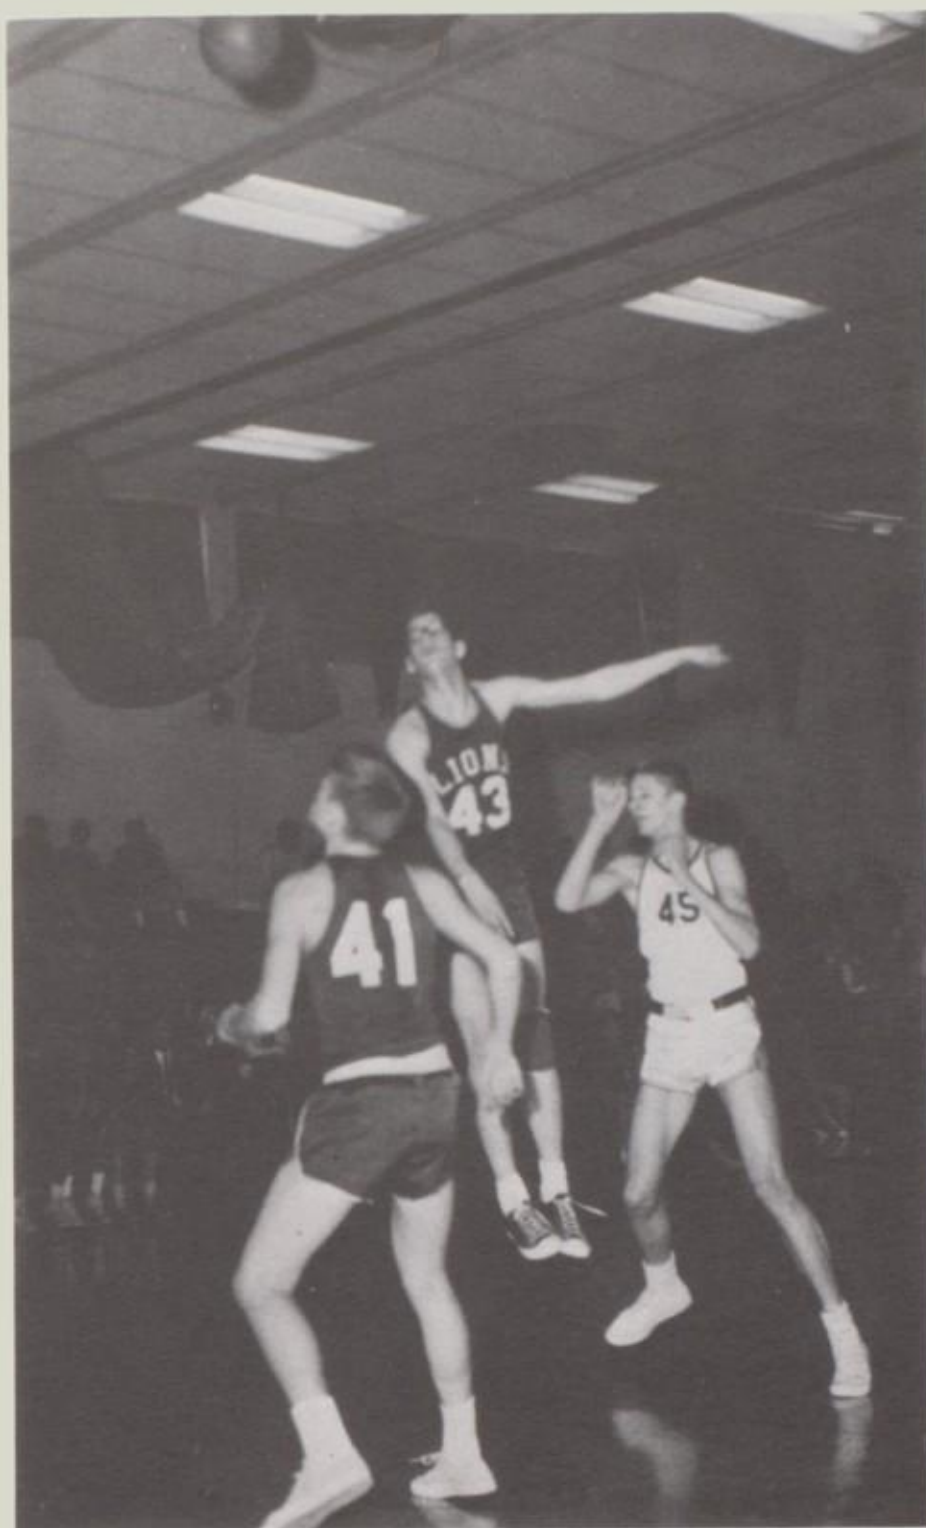

The work of managers Weida and Ingold was invaluable during the year.

The freshmen basketball team, under Coach Stroia, compiled a 5-13 record. This young group of Vikings showed good potential, and with a few years of work and experience, should become a respectable team. Chuck Caniford and Lee Erdman led in scoring, and Dan Cook was the big man on the boards for the Frosh.

Wrestlers Won First State Championship for Stark County

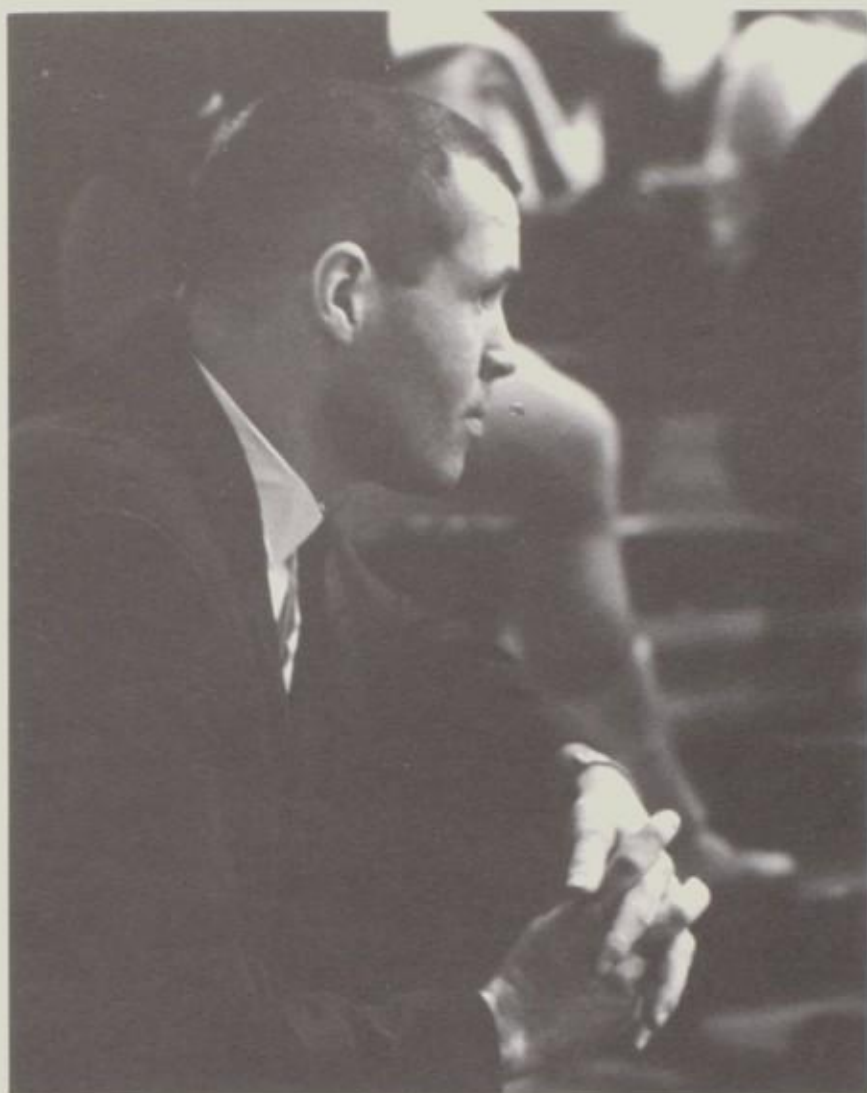

The Hoover Varsity Matmen have once again proved that they are athletes of the highest caliber by completing a highly successful season. With their 9-1 dual meet record, the team showed its superiority. The wrestlers won the Christmas invitational by a sizeable margin; they also outscored four other teams at the Bay Village Tourney.

In the sectionals held at Beaver Local, seven men qualified for district action. The team won the title for the third straight year at the Glenwood Districts. Chick Crolley and Francis Paquin won district championships in their individual weight classes; Stan Owens and Pat Willaman earned second place berths. All four boys went to the State meet in Columbus; Paquin won the State Heavyweight Championship. Owens and Crolley placed third in 133-pound and 127-pound divisions, respectively. Hoover won the State Championship with a team score of 32 points, thus bringing the championship trophy to a Stark County school for the first time.

Pat Willaman has control as he fights to pin his opponent.

The Reserve Wrestling Team demonstrated its ability and athletic powers this season. The grapplers, for the most part inexperienced, compiled an impressive 8-3 record. Working to perfect holds and to speed-up movements, and learning footwork, attacks, and defense were among the many instructions received by the boys. Everyday practice consisted of weight-lifting, running, and wrestle-offs. Winning wrestling teams are the product of hard work, meticulous detail, and careful organization.

Coach Roger Viscount drilled the wrestlers in proper techniques.

The Viking baseball team pulled through the 1964 season in fine fashion as they pounded opponents for an amazing 11-3 record during regular season play and dashed the tourney hopes of five other teams as they advanced to the regional competition. The competent coaching of Skippers Don Hertler and Gordon Knisely, the powerful hitting, the superb pitching, and the precision defensive playing carried the Hoover team through the rough season and into the tournament before being shut out by a strong Cleveland Benedictine team in the regional semifinals.

Consistent hitting produced many Viking runs.

Pat Dewey and Greg Brown execute the fine technique of passing the baton.

Tom Gopp demonstrates ideal form which won him statewide acclaim.

The 1964 Hoover track squad under the coaching of Paul MacDonald compiled a record, not outstanding, but, nevertheless, enviable considering the caliber of teams it faced. The cindermen compiled a 6-3 record in dual competition against such fine schools as Alliance, Canton McKinley, Massilon, and Akron Buchtel, and missed first place in its own invitational meet by only one-half-point. The team, having a number of fine returning letter winners, was well balanced in its attack with such competitors as John Phillip heaving the shot, Ted Johnson at pole vault, Tom Tinlin at the 220 yard dash, miler Tom Sack, half-miler Pat Dewey, and state-qualifier Tom Gopp at the 100 yard dash and low hurdles.

John Phillip concentrates on form as he warms up for the district meet.

Keith Hickman leaps off the runway toward another successful jump.

The 1964 Viking golf team showed their prowess again, as under the guidance of Coach Jack Yost, they compiled an admirable record of 17-6. Then, following regular season play, the Hoover linksmen were able to drive, chip, and putt their way to a strong second place in the District championship, thus earning a trip to the state tourney in Columbus. Seniors Tim Schiltz and Terry Reed, and juniors Gregg Weida and Greg Fischer were strengthened by the skillful depth of underclassmen.

An integral part of the athletic scene at Hoover High is the presence of the Vikings' vivacious cheerleaders. To this group of vibrant young ladies, advised by Miss Dawn Shoemaker, is assigned the difficult task of maintaining the traditional school spirit through both victory and defeat. The girls accomplished this by planning pep rallies, directing the making of posters prior to the games, working with the Booster Club, promoting goodwill between our school and others, and practicing regularly to develop new cheers and perfect old techniques.

The difficulty of arousing this enthusiasm was made formidable by our staggered schedule and frequent losing streaks during the basketball season. Nevertheless, we all agree that our cheerleaders should be proud of the success which they achieved. The entire student body is indebted to these outstanding girls for the fine work they did.

School spirit has always been a big factor in Hoover athletics.

CHAPTER SIX

WINNING an election for a Student Council office, reigning as queen at the Prom, and being inducted into National Honor Society illustrate outstanding climaxes. Extracurricular clubs and activities afford opportunities to accept responsibility and leadership, investigate future vocations and learn to work with others. Fame, popularity, love and a personal sense of worth often accompany this lighter side of high school life until the student reaches graduation, the final climax in ACTIVITIES.

Fiesta Española 1964

The members of the Junior class and their guests from the Senior class of 1964 entered la tierra del sol through the wrought iron gates of an ancient Spanish courtyard. Surrounded by flower-bedecked adobe walls, couples danced to the strains of Frank Corbi and his orchestra under a warm Mediterranean sky of deepest blue.

Highlighting the evening was the coronation of the Queen, Carolyn Wise, by Charles Hubler, President of the Junior class. The couples then moved to the buffet table which was accented by a fountain of flowing punch.

Time passed swiftly as the Senores and Senoritas swirled gracefully around the tiered fountain. A wonderful evening ended all too soon, but its memories will live forever.

The 1963 Queen, Barbara Bacon, crowned Bobbie Rine, the 1964 Homecoming Queen, during the pre-game ceremonies. The queen and her court then settled back to watch the valiant Vikings crash through the Lehman line-up to overcome the previously undefeated Polar Bears by a score of 20-14.

A warm October afternoon was the time for fun and food at Price Park.

Excitement ran high before the Glenwood game.

The strength and success of a school depend primarily upon the spirit and enthusiasm of its students. The Booster Club, the largest organization in the school, inspires strong student support for our school organizations and activities. The club's function has been carried out through such various activities as organizing car caravans, selling pep tags, and arranging bus transportation for away games.

The Booster Club also provides fun and enjoyment for its five hundred members. A picnic at Price Park, the "Four Seasons Dance," and the annual-signing party were among the other activities sponsored by the club.

Future Nurses Learn as They Serve

The Future Nurses Club, sponsored by the Stark County Medical Association Auxiliary, gives those girls interested in medicine the opportunity to explore and learn about various careers in this field. A panel of nurses, a doctor, a pharmacist, and a social worker made the monthly meetings both interesting and informative. The members enjoyed several planned social events and rendered service by making valentine favors for Molly Stark Hospital patients.

Quill and Scroll Honors Journalists

Quill and Scroll members demonstrate their journalistic techniques.

Superior and outstanding journalistic talents of high school juniors and seniors on the yearbook and journalism staffs are recognized through Quill and Scroll, an international honor society.

Those eligible to become members must be in the upper third of their class; must have done superior work on a school publication; must be recommended by either the journalism or yearbook staff advisers; and must be approved by Quill and Scroll's executive adviser.

The Staffs of both publications were invited to a dinner in the high school cafeteria catered by Ingold's Restaurant on February 25. The invocation was given by Mr. Charles Ballinger. Following the dinner students and parents heard Mr. W. A. Berger, Associate Promotion Director of the Akron Beacon Journal. Students Gained Experience through Voluntary Service

An opportunity to perform minor secretarial duties while serving the school was given to assistants selected by Mr. Richard Armstrong and Mr. Donald C. LaHue for their respective offices. These assistants learn office organization and aid administration by performing such numerous duties as typing, filing, and recording absentees.

Because of the disorganization resulting from the staggered schedule, hall monitors were necessary to help the faculty maintain order in the corridors. Students benefitted from their services, because the halls were kept quiet while classes were in progress.

Student Council Participates in Activity Planning

The Student Council, composed of an elected representative and alternate from each homeroom, is the voice of the student body. It serves as a liaison to communicate ideas and policies between students and administration. Officers are nominated by petition and elected by the entire student body. With the assistance of Mr. LaHue, the organization plans Homecoming activities, schedules and presides at assemblies, supervises the selection of cheerleaders, and discusses school problems and policies during their bi-monthly meeting.

Greg Brown, president of Student Council, presides over student assemblies.

David Martin was one of Hoover's Teenagers of the Month. He was also recognized by the Canton Repository as the County's Teenager of the Month of January.

Achievement Merits Recognition

At N.E.L. Districts, Jeff Mylett placed second in dramatic declamation. He missed qualifying for the National Speech Tournament by one place.

Nancy Strauch placed eighteenth in the State on the Ohio General Scholarship Test, given November, 1964.

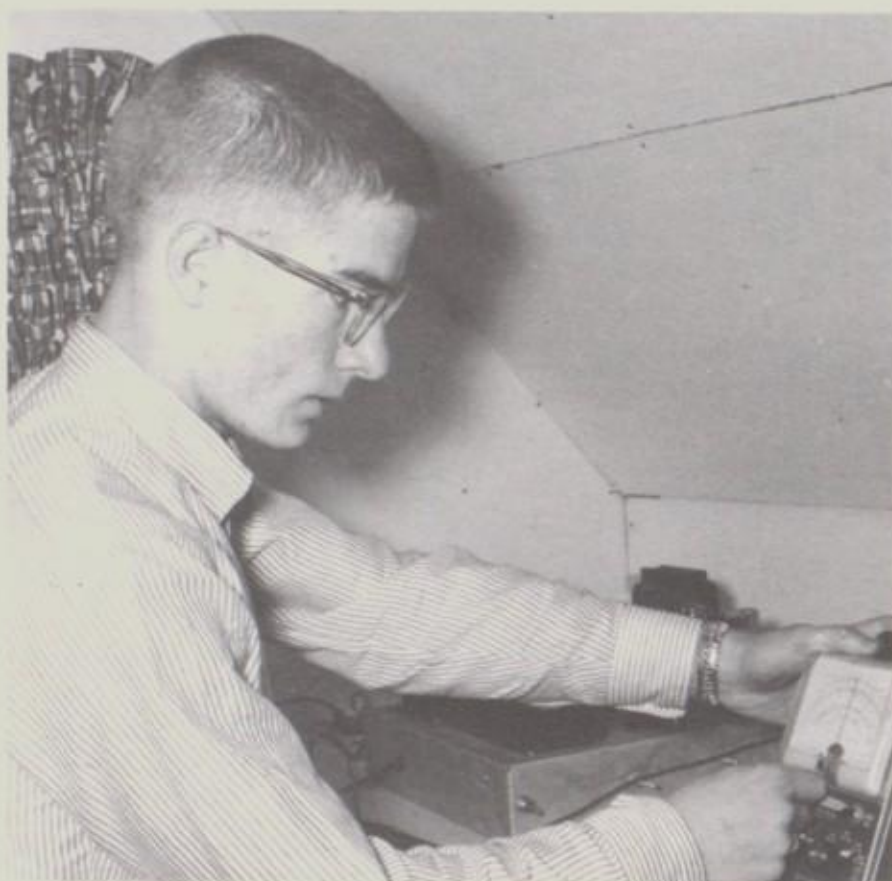

Brady Elliot, Ralph McCutchen, and Mark Hollis are eligible for appointments to the U.S. Air Force Academy, the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy, and the U.S. Military Academy, respectively.

Endeavors Are Rewarding

Early this year Mary Golloway was notified that she had received the Betty Crocker Award of the year for homemaking. Mary scored highest on a written examination sponsored by General Mills Inc.

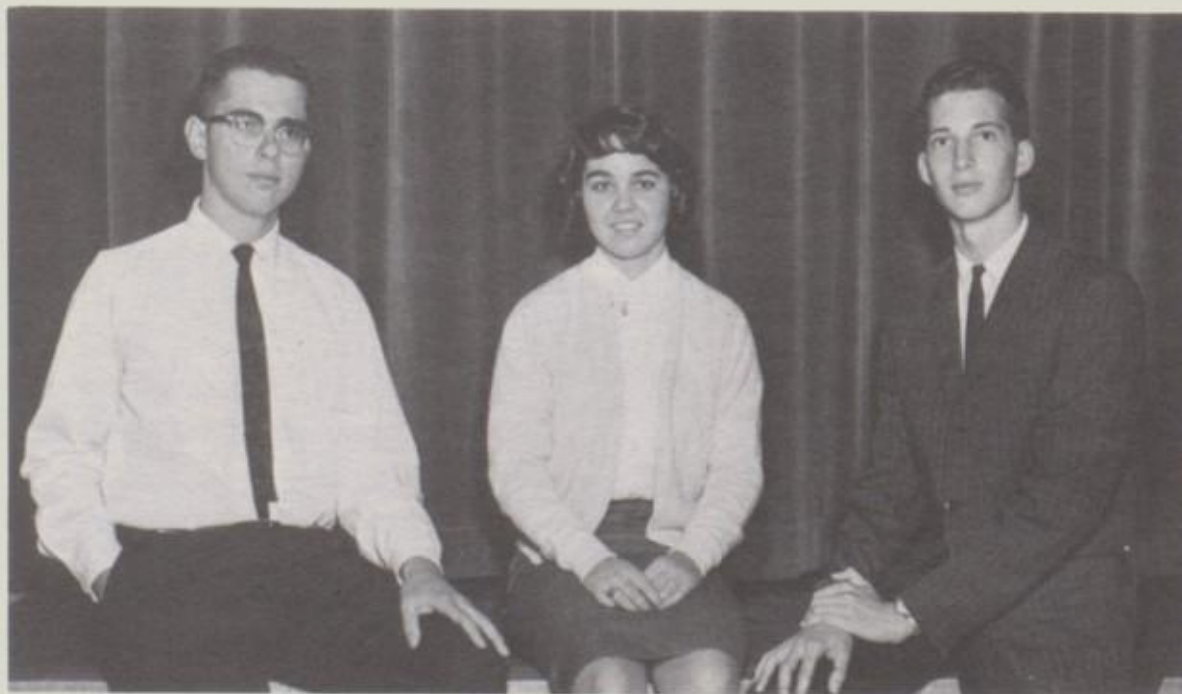

Art Shahan was one of the top three hundred students of 22,000 contestants who participated in the Westinghouse Science Talent Search. Art was judged upon a written examination, his project, and recommendations.

Tom Emmons demonstrated his "simple" device for tracking the annual motion by the day, week, or month to the Great Lakes Meeting of the Planetarium personnel at Michigan State University.

Lee Rainey, Nancy Strauch, and Dave Martin were National Merit Finalists. They have now qualified for National Merit Scholarships provided by various business corporations.

Scholarship Teams Represent the School's Academic Achievement

The high school testing program provides an opportunity for students to participate in either one or two of the Preliminary District Scholarship Tests sponsored by the Ohio State Board of Education and the Board of Regents in co-operation with the universities, colleges, and schools of Ohio. These tests are scholastic achievement tests given at different levels of study; they are administered at the high school and are open to all students who wish to enter the competition.

The three students placing highest in each subject represent Hoover High and compete for honors at the Final District State Scholarship Tests which are given at Malone College.

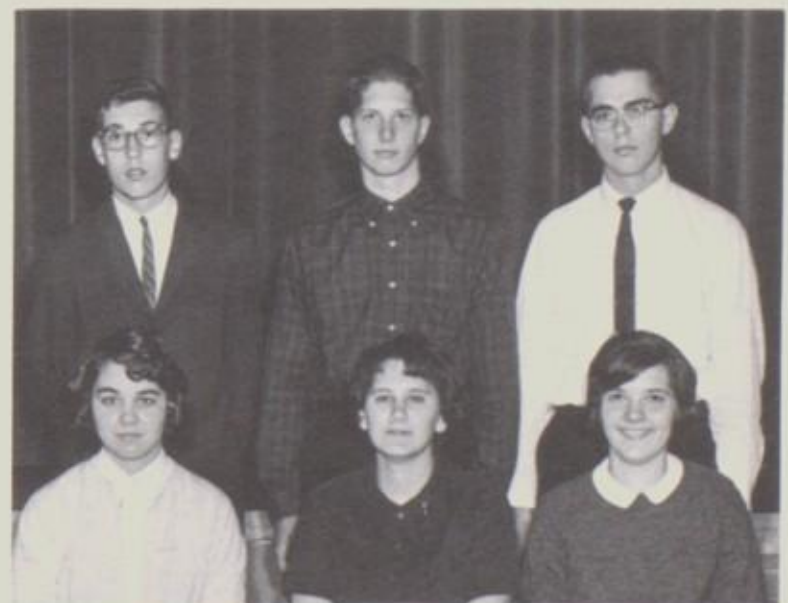

Many of our students have placed with excellent ratings. This year Hoover had eleven students who placed in Division I in the state. Among these was Martha Fessler who tied for ninth in the state in English XI.

Deserving Students Gained Membership in the National Honor Society

Membership in the National Honor Society is a privilege held by outstanding students who excel in all phases of school and community life.

Character, scholarship, leadership, and service summarize the qualities upon which membership is based. Eligible students are recommended by the faculty and selected by a committee which weighs each of these qualities very carefully in selecting the inductees.

Mrs. Arndt, adviser, and the officers organized the annual induction assembly given for the entire student body March 11. David Martin, Marjie Graybill, Gary Dolan and Vivienne Martin presented illustrative speeches on the bywords. Francis Paquin presided as 45 new members from sophomore, junior, and senior classes were inducted during the candlelight ceremony. The Reverend Walter Ruth was guest speaker for the occasion.

Students and parents congratulate inductees following the ceremony.

President Francis Paquin conversed with the speaker, the Reverend Walter Ruth of Zion Lutheran Church.

It takes time and planning to make an interesting service.

CHAPTER SEVEN

PUBLICATION of this book at a reasonable price for all students depends upon the contributions of many local business firms and individuals. Complimentary ads on the bottom of preceding pages and the following section of advertisements demonstrate their interest and support of school activities. Many others have also contributed as professional and Senior parent patrons. Approximately $2,000, about 1/3 of the total cost of publication, came from these outside sources. To all, we express our deepest appreciation.

EDUCATION — growth in knowledge — and mutual understanding are major factors in the development of the individual or groups of individuals, such as a business enterprise.

Economic growth and industrialization have helped us here in North Canton, as well as throughout this country and abroad, to achieve a higher standard of living and a better way of life.

This striving for improvement is the desire of people everywhere — but unfortunately, beyond the present capacities of many.

To help change this, you, the graduates of our schools today play a vital, almost indispensable, part. By applying knowledge and understanding in the sciences, engineering and industry, as well as in our own unique democratic institutions, you can lead the way in our collective journey toward freedom and growth for all.

Our best wishes go with you for success and happiness... wherever you may go... whatever you may do.

The Hoover Company, like many American business firms today, provides jobs and opportunities, goods and services for people in many countries of the world.

PIZZAS,

& PROFITS

Profits make the world of American business go 'round and 'round.

Even though they're usually a thin slice of a company's or a store's total income.

Most high school seniors think profits are about 50% of sales after taxes are paid! Actually, a pizza shop owner who, on a busy night, sells $100 worth of pizzas is lucky if he winds up with $4 or $5 profit.

And that profit doesn't all stay in the owner's pocket. He has to set aside some of it for new equipment and perhaps a bigger shop someday. Profits pay for expansion in any business. Profits create new jobs.

Every record company gambles on each new release. Duds far outnumber the hits. A company's stockholders receive only about 3% of the money you plunk down for a new record.

And manufacturers of tapered roller bearings, steel and rock bits, for instance, work hard and plan carefully ahead to earn a small percentage of profit. Then that profit must be divided up again—for new machines, new plants, new research and to pay back the stockholders who have invested their savings in a company's future.

When you think about profits, remember that even the thinnest slices have to go a long way. The Timken Roller Bearing Company, Canton, Ohio. Makers of tapered roller bearings, fine alloy steel and removable rock bits.

Paper cutting was one of the odd jobs of the editor.

This novel, the 1965 Viking, has the unique feature of having many authors. Mrs. Martha Hammack, staff adviser, did a commendable job of co-ordinating, supervising, and encouraging the work of the entire staff. Other teachers who assisted were Miss Hazel Kronk, adviser to the bookkeeping manager, and Mrs. Anne Berkebile, adviser for the advertising solicitors.

Members of the staff planned the theme and contents; wrote, typed and proofread copy; photographed, selected, and sized pictures; and drew and copied layouts. The advertising staff solicited ads for the financing of the book. All business records were kept by the business manager. This year the yearbooks were sold in the homerooms by a committee of staff members under the book sales co-chairmen.

As editor, I express my sincere thanks to the advisers and the members of the staff for sacrificing time and effort to make this edition possible. By sharing the burden of producing this annual, they have received the greatest pleasure in its final completion.

"Are we going to have a yearbook this year?" questioned Mrs. Hammack quite frequently.

Sheila Markley, feature section chairman, assisted in many other areas.

Mike Kolp, who was in charge of headlines, and captions, helped organize material for deadlines.

Author Notes

Tom Emmons snapped the other photographers, Pete Cain, Kathi Kreiner, and Tom Allan.

Molly Deibel and Paul Smith were in charge of the Activity Section.

Nancy Strauch, chairman of the Academic Section, edited copy and selected pictures.

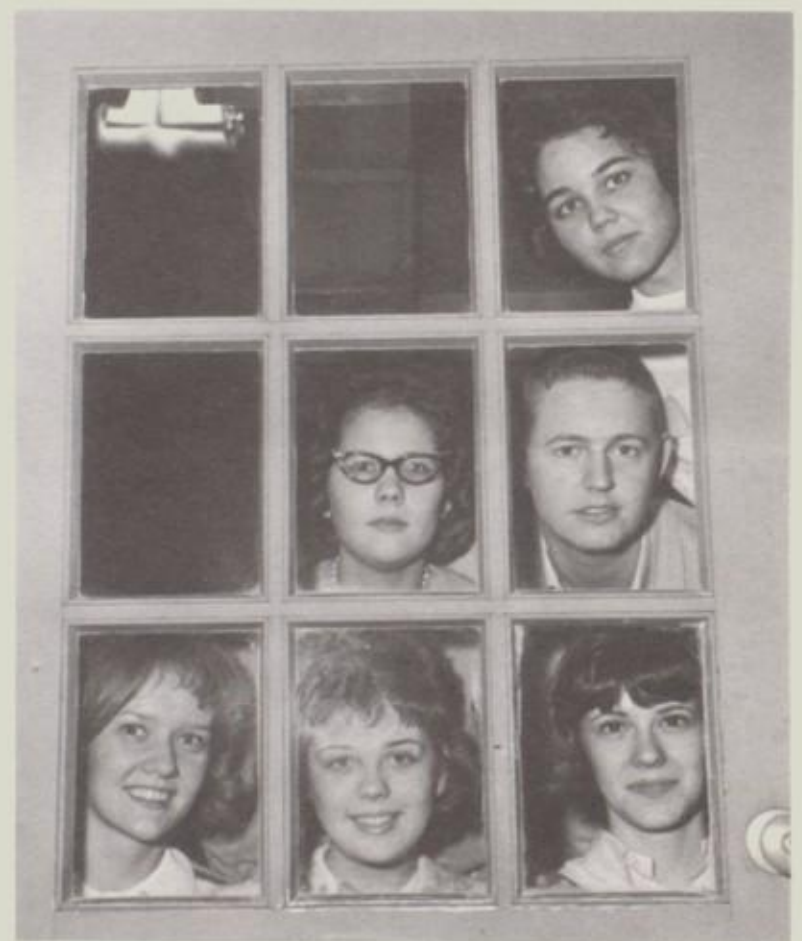

Lyn Weeks and Kathy Moor planned the instrumental and vocal music sections.

Author Notes Viking Staff

Randy Risher, Alan Miner, Pam Moore, Terry Johson, and Linda Horning drew posters and layouts.

Mary Hostetler, Jean Wilson and Joan Correll proofread copy and planned class sections. Joan also built the index.

Jeani Smith, Sheryl Little, Jane Pfouts, Penny Myers, Dale Stitz and Nancy Strauch smiled as they closed the door of the academic section.

Francis Paquin, Pat Dewey, and Steve Smith planned the athletic section.

Hudson Conley, Art Shahan, and Bobbie Rine sized the numerous pictures which appear in this annual.

Book sales co-chairmen, Sue Davis and Peg Enke also planned the Senior section.

Miss Hazel Kronk advised Judie Rebillot, bookkeeping manager.

Advertising Sales Staff. Row One: Linda Horning, Gail Mallard, Sherrie Billings, Mary Golloway, Sonnie Preda, Jeani Smith. Row Two: Mrs. Anne Berkebile, adviser; Jim Robinson, Randy Ingold, Brady Elliott, Drew Peretsky, Keith Gopp. Mark Hollis and Gregg Weida were absent when the picture was taken.

Typists were Lana Keith, Lorraine Marchand, Michaela McMaster, Jerri Long, Carol Brogden, Cheryle Sayre, Donna Phillips, Carol Swineford, Sheryl Furbay, and Sharon Weisel.

Dick McDowell and Gary Givler arranged advertising layout and index.

Epilogue

In the spring of 1964 the newly selected staff from the Junior class selected the theme and organized the contents for this annual. Actual work began with the return to school in the fall. Many people on the staff have spent hours during study halls and lunch periods, after school, and at night producing this edition. We have felt the responsibility of fulfilling assignments, the pressure of meeting deadlines and the satisfaction of a completed project. It is our wish that the staffs in years to come will benefit from our ideas, our methods and our mistakes.

In closing, we recognize, with sincere appreciation, all who took part in this production. Our special thanks is extended to the school administration and faculty, our photographers from TROUP and PLUTO STUDIO INC., and those of CONSOLIDATED GRAPHIC ARTS, our printer who have been so patient with the staff as they worked to publish this 1965 Viking.
